Palestine Revolt

Promises Made During World War Plague Great Britain

(By Associated Press)

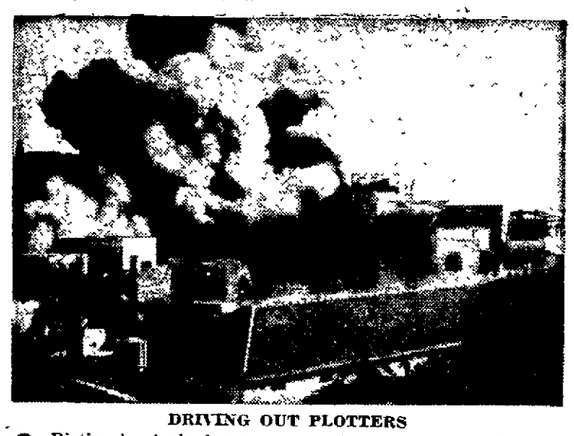
Great Britain is trying to put down a revolt in Palestine. She is trying also to determine how once and for all the trouble between Arab and Jew can be ended. This brings you to date on a complicated situation:

PLOWING A PALESTINE FARM

1—These girls are two of the many Jews that went to Palestine after Britain in 1917 promised Jews a "national home" there. The Holy Land became a haven for Europe's persecuted Jewry, and the Jewish population has risen from 66,000 in 1920 to 400,000. American Jews there total 8,000; their investments, an estimated $40,000,000.

URGING ACTION AGAINST THE JEWS

2—But during the World war, Britain had also encouraged the Arabs' desire to have their own nation. So Moslem leaders almost from the start have protested Jewish immigration and insisted that Arabs (who now number about 900,000) should have the say in Palestine affairs.

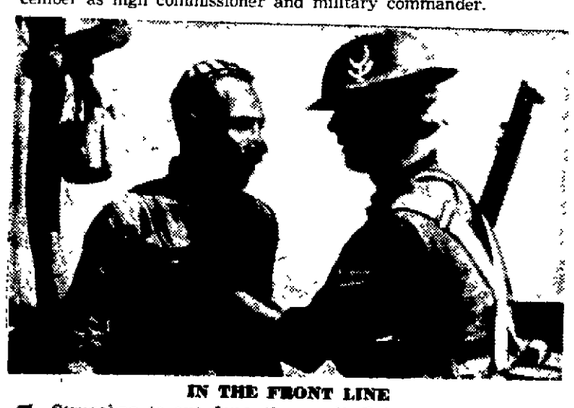


DRIVING OUT PLOTTERS

3—Rioting by Arabs became serious in the spring of 1936. In 1937, a proposed three-way division of Palestine (Jewish and Arab states and a British mandate) brought protests from both Jews and Arabs, and increased rioting by the latter. In one recent 10-week period there were 1,200 casualties. The British fought fire with fire. Here an Arab section of Jaffa is burned by authorities because it was headquarters for rioters.

THE TWO COMMANDERS

4—The 43-year-old Grand Mufti (left), powerful Moslem leader, fled Jerusalem when things got too hot for him last year. Known as "The Holy Rebel," he directs the Arab revolt from Syria. Seeking to quell that revolt is Sir Harold MacMichael (right), veteran of African wars, brought to Palestine last December as high commissioner and military commander.



IN THE FRONT LINE

5—Struggling to put down the revolt, Britain now has 21,000 troops in Palestine. Here, in the Judean hills, a Highlander searches an Arab for arms. In Palestine more is involved than British prestige. An unfriendly Arab state might throw its lot in with the fascist nations, could endanger Britain's lifeline to India.

DAVEY TO BOW IN U. S. SCRAP OVER PENSIONS

Governor Promises Quick Action to Obtain Grants for Last Quarter.

LAW SUIT CONTINUES

Hearing Underway in Supreme Court; Ferguson Blasts at Executive's Stand.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Prompt capitulation by Gov. Martin L. Davey to end the Federal-Ohio old age pension impasse was confidently looked for by a group of state legislators today as the Ohio Supreme court took up litigation seeking to force action

Representatives of the legislators indicated after a conference with the governor yesterday that Davey had promised quick steps to obtain last quarter grants from the National Social Security board for Ohio age pensions.

Funds Withheld.

The board ordered its half of funds for the state's 111,000 pensioners withheld pending administrative changes in the Ohio division of aid for the aged which Davey declined to make

Edgar S. Byers, Cleveland Heights attorney, asked the state s high court to require the changes but Davey in an answer requested elimination of most of Byers' petition on the ground that state law was not involved.

Byers then filed a new action seeking a peremptory writ to compel Davey, State Welfare Director Margaret Allman and Pension Division Chief Wray Bevens to comply with federal requirements.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson declared yesterday:

"I don't know whether we have another Hitler in Ohio or not, but it looks like it. It seems to me that if we can't impeach him (Davey) we should take him before a court and make him comply with federal regulations for payment of pensions."

Would Shut Off Pay.

Ferguson threatened to hold up salary checks of the governor and division of aid for the aged employes and refuse to pay executive mansion bills until full pension checks were mailed. They normally would be posted Oct. 25.

Ferguson said he had been assured by the federal board that a corps of inspectors would help make suggested changes in the state pension system as soon as Bevens, recently appointed by Davey, requested it.

Troops Jail 300 Arabs, Beat Down Jerusalem Siege

JERUSALEM — (U.P.)—British troops today rounded up 300 Arab prisoners in old Jerusalem, where they had lifted a two-day rebel siege by storming through the gates of the 16th century walls.

The prisoners, all men, denied they were rebels, but they were questioned, examined for shoulder bruises that might have been made by rifle butts, and held for identification.

Sporadic fighting continued in the Moslem quarter, where the rebels were making a last stand. The toll of the British occupation so far had been nine Arabs killed and 16 persons wounded, including two British policemen and a soldier.

Troops and British police controlled the Christian, Jewish and Armenian quarters and they had cordoned off the Moslem area.

There were 3,000 soldiers in the Jerusalem area and several hundred policemen and Jewish supernumeraries, trying to restore order. They were stationed at Mount of Olives, Bethlehem, and other strategic points.

4 FIGHT DEATH

New Yorkers Saved By Clinging to Overturned Boat.

NORTH WILDWOOD, N. J.—(INS)—Rescued 15 miles at sea after clinging to an overturned dory for an hour following the sinking of their yacht, four New Yorkers were in a critical condition at Mace's hospital today.

The party, whose cruise to Palm Beach was halted when their yacht scraped a sandbar and sank, consisted of Carl Erbe, 35, owner of the boat; Erwin Simon, 25, Frank Addison, 45, and Knudsen Waldemar, 63. All are suffering from submersion and exposure.

Taft Hits Padding of WPA; Sawyer Makes 'Deal' Charge

His Lips Sealed

Youngstown authorities investigating the shooting of Henry Fitch, 31, above, were wondering today what it was he wanted to tell Mahoning County Sheriff Ralph Elser. Elser has revealed that Fitch had sought an interview with him and that one had been arranged for a time just a few hours after Fitch was shot to death in his car.

DEMAND SUNDAY 3.2 BAN AGAIN

Liquor Dealers, Rejected Twice in Plea for Longer Hours, Seek to Halt Beer Sale.

Turned down twice in its attempt to have the city's liquor curfew extended, the Richland County Permit Holders association renewed its efforts today to have a ban placed on the sale of 3.2 beer on Sundays.

A petition filed with Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., asks council to take action on a request submitted three months ago proposing an amendment to the curfew ordinance making the sale of 3.2 beer illegal on Sunday.

A committee from the association which filed the petition charged that a number of places now open on Sunday were "bootlegging" under the pretense of conducting a beverage business.

The committee is comprised of William Knittle, William Hipp, James Davidson, John Hergatt, Councilman Fred Miller and E. C. Pollock, secretary of the group. They said the association, which represents a majority of permit

TURNS ON HEAT

City Starts Furnaces Again as Mercury Skids to 39.

Mansfielders "turned on the heat" today and brought out heavy coats as Autumn really got down to its damp and chilly business.

After more than a week of shirt-sleeve weather which brought several temperature readings of 85, the mercury remained in the low 40's today after dropping down to 39, seven above freezing, early this morning.

It will get colder again tonight, the weather bureau said as it predicted a fairly heavy frost. Friday will be fair. Rain in the last 24 hours was recorded at .23 of an inch.

WIDOW BEATEN

Columbus Youth Jailed, Says He Struck Woman, 46.

COLUMBUS — (INS — Deputies held 26-year-old Robert Arthur today on open charges pending the outcome of injuries suffered by Mrs. Lyda Mauer, 46. Deputies Frank Martin and Elmer Grossman said Arthur confessed beating the widow and leaving her in a field Tuesday night.

The officers said Arthur broke down a few hours after his arrest and said "I don't know how we started fighting. All I know is that I'd had enough of her."

G. O. P. Candidate Says New Deal Fails

Democracy In Danger If It Retains Power, He Tells 800 at Rally.

Charging that the extension of WPA activities in recent months is "a deliberate attempt to use public money to keep the New Dealers in office," Robert A. Taft, Republican candidate for U. S senator, said last night in a campaign talk in Mansfield that "all we have to show for five years of the New Deal is a bigger national debt."

Taft was the principal speaker before a crowd estimated at 800 persons at Republican headquarters.

Scores New Deal Spending.

Directing his attack at public spending and the administration's planned economy program, Taft asserted that "if the New Dealers ever succeed in that attempt to retain control of the nation, we will have had the end of democratic government."

"The major issue in this campaign," he said, "is whether we are going to send men back to Washington who will accept the word and advice of President Roosevelt, or those who will treat each measure as it deserves and decide it on its merits."

Giving credit to the Democrats and Republicans who helped to defeat the president's supreme court and reorganization bills, Taft said: "Don't be deceived by the defeat of those measures in the last congress. If New Deal congressmen are given a renewed vote of confidence, you will have the same battle to fight all over again and the next time you may not win."

"Intoxicated by their success in the 1936 election, the New Dealers would have government control wages, hours and prices in the United States," Taft asserted, "but in order to do that they would have to control every price-making

Sawyer Asserts Bricker Has 'Unholy Alliance' With Gov. Davey.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Republican Gubernatorial Candidate John W. Bricker stood accused today by his Democratic opponent, Charles Sawyer, of promising a 30 per cent cut in state patronage in return for Gov. Martin L. Davey's political support.

Sawyer in a radio broadcast here last night asserted that Bricker's campaign slogan, "Ohio needs a change," actually meant a 70 per cent change as a result of the "unholy alliance."

"I charge that John W. Bricker and his boss, (Republican state chairman) Ed Schorr, have entered into an unholy alliance with the present administration," Sawyer said.

"In return for aid and comfort given my opponent in this campaign he has promised as the price of his betrayal 30 per cent of the state's patronage.

"A few weeks ago in Cleveland . . . my opponent declared that he was 'a great believer in party responsibility.' . . . Even as he uttered those words the deal was in progress in Columbus whereby he was promising to divide the party responsibility on a 70-30 basis."

Sawyer's charge revived talk of a split in party ranks which went the rounds during the Democratic state convention here. Governor Davey did not attend the convention and ordered high administration officials to "boycott" it.

The governor has not taken part publicly in any campaign activities since his defeat by Sawyer at the primary.

Sawyer's blast at Bricker was by far the loudest heard during heavy campaign firing throughout

Dems Charge G. O. P. 'Kids' Voters; Townsenders Rally Tonight

Walter B. Woodward of Bellville, Republican candidate for congress in the 17th district, is expected to fire "both barrels" in his campaign at a Townsend rally at 7:30 p. m. today at Republican headquarters.

Appearing on the program with Woodward will be Beecher E. Hess, national Townsend organizer.

Woodward, who spoke briefly last night at a Republican rally here after an address at Ashland, said he was saving up his "ammunition for tomorrow (Thursday) night's meeting."

An avowed Townsend plan supporter, Woodward has made little reference to the pension plan in his talks at Republican rallies throughout the district

Last night, his talk was aimed at the New Deal administration which, he said, "is giving us dictatorship on the installment plan."

He asserted that "what is good government for one party is good for all of them, and it would be sad if we could not unite at the ballot box to eradicate the evils in government."

Hess, an educator, businessman and economist, is an official in the city of Norwood, O. His topic will be "The Townsend Plan."

Charges that Republicans are "kidding" the voters by attempting to sell their ticket to the aged by backing a Townsend candidate for congress, Walter B. Woodward, were hurled today by John O'Donnell, chairman of the Richland county Democratic executive committee.

O'Donnell charged that G. O. P. leaders, although unsympathetic with the $200 a month idea have accepted Woodward, of Bellville, avowed Townsend plan supporter, "for the sake of a few votes."

He made his charges in commenting on a statement made yesterday by Ralph Hardy, Republican chairman, that Republicans were supporting Woodward "100 per cent" but were not supporting the Townsend plan. Woodward has campaigned as a Townsend plan advocate.

Other Decomcratic leaders also joined O'Donnell in charging that the Republicans were fostering a "fantastic scheme" to win over the vote of aged persons.

To combat any loss of Democratic strength of that kind, Democratic campaign heads yesterday announced they were attempting to win for William A. Ashbrook, Democratic congressional candidate, the support of young Repub-

Wet Twig Causes Short Circuit, Threatens to Close 3 Plants

A wet leaf or twig from a tree threatened late yesterday to close down three of Mansfield's biggest manufacturing plants because of an electrical power shutdown.

Either a leaf, twig or some other tiny particle was believed responsible by Ohio Public Service workmen today for short circuiting two high tension lines, each carrying 22,000 volts, causing a flare of sparks that set fire to a utility pole, burning it off at the top.

The pole fire attracted a large crowd to Newman street where flames shot high into the air until the top of the pole broke off and dangled in the air from a maze of electrical wires

City firemen stood by helplessly while the pole burned. A stream of water directed at the power lines would have imperiled their lives, as water is a conductor of electricity.

It was only through what workmen described as a "lucky break" that the power wasn't cut off for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, the Ohio Brass company and the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

The fallen power line was so situated that workmen were able to feed the power through an emergency loop while the crippled line was being repaired.

Installation of a new pole, insulators and other equipment was to be completed today.

RESUMES EXPENSE PROBE

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett will resume next Tuesday the grand jury investigation of expense accounts of former State Senator William H. Herner of Norwalk and Rep. Julian H. Schweller of Ft. Jennings. The inquiry recessed last month pending a study of 1935-36 finance records.

Ex-Mate Indicted

Martin Snyder, estranged husband of Ruth Etting retired radio singer, was indicted yesterday by a grand jury in California on charges of attempted murder after he had shot and seriously wounded Myrl Alderman, the singer's present husband. Miss Etting testified before the grand jury. She scuffled with her ex-mate after the shooting.

ETTING'S 'EX' BACK IN JAIL

Radio Singer's Former Mate, Indicted in Shooting, Fails to Get $50,000 Bond.

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES—"Col. Gimp" of the Great White Way, Martin Snyder, again occupied a jail cell in lieu of $50,000 bail today while the state moved to try him quickly on charges he kidnaped and attempted to murder Myrl Alderman, his successor to Singer Ruth Etting's love.

The original charges against "Col. Gimp" were superseded last night by a grand jury indictment—voted after Miss Etting testified that he shot Alderman in the music room of her Hollywood Hills home last Saturday night.

Miss Etting, 42, flaxen-haired and visibly nervous, spoke to the jury in trembling voice of the shooting scrape.

She said Alderman drove up to the house with Snyder holding a pistol against his back. Once inside, she said, Snyder told her, Alderman, and Edith Snyder, his step-daughter, that "I'm going to kill all of you."

One bullet from Snyder's pistol went wild, she continued, but the

JOB ROLLS UP

Unemployment Drops Million Since June, Economist Says.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A leading government economist estimated today that business improvement since June had reduced unemployment by 1,000,000 men and women.

The economist, who declined to be quoted by name but whose figures are relied on by several agencies, figured there were 10,250,000 persons out of work in June and about 9,250,000 now.

On that basis, about one-fourth of the persons who lost jobs in the recession have been re-employed. After reaching a peak of more than 14,000,000 in the spring of 1930, federal statistics show, unemployment gradually dwindled to 6,000,000 in the summer of 1937.

Then, the recession boosted unemployment about 4,400,000 to a total of 10,400,000.

SNAKE SURPLUS

Zoo Gets 219 Rattlers As Gift From Dakota Rancher.

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—A North Dakota rancher wrote the zoo to send him a couple of boxes and he'd "send some rattlers back."

Curator Roger Conant promptly forwarded the boxes, hoping, he said, to get "maybe three or four" snakes.

But the boxes came back with 219 rattlesnakes—all hungry.

"Now," moaned Conant, "we'll be working day and night shifts chasing mice and birds to feed them."

BRIBE CHARGE FILED AFTER NEW INQUIRY

Grall, Granted Immunity in 'Slot' Investigation, Held in $20,000 Bail.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

'Surprise to Me,' Officer Says as He Hears of Indictment for 'Protection' Fee.

(By Associated Press)

ELYRIA—A special grand jury charged Sheriff William F. Grall today with accepting a $30 bribe for permission to operate "a house of ill fame for purposes of prostitution."

The sheriff, a state witness in a recent bribery trial of alleged slot machine operators, was immediately arrested by Dr. S. C. Ward, coroner.

The first count of the indictment charged Sheriff Grall last June 15 took $30 from Maxine Barbour, alias Penny Morgan, for permission to operate a house. The second count charges she paid the sum.

Operates Tourist Home.

The auburn-haired Miss Morgan, 22, now operates Penny's tourist home five miles north of here.

Arraigned before Judge Guy B. Findley, Grall was held in $20,000 bail.

Howard R. Butler, county prosecutor, asked for $25,000 bond, but L. B. Adams, the sheriff's attorney, pleaded for lower bail because of illness in Grall's family.

"I am very anxious that he be free to raise the bond," Judge Findlay said, and set it at $20,000.

"This is all a surprise to me," Sheriff Grall said after he had pleaded innocent. He was remanded to custody of a court bailiff pending posting of the bond.

Miss Morgan, named jointly in the indictment, was being sought.

Received $3,000.

Grall was a state witness at the recent trial of five alleged slot machine operators on charges of bribery. He admitted receiving $3,000 "protection money."

Grall, William G. Smith, former chief deputy, and Al G. Bauer, Elyria Democratic leader, were granted immunity in the "slots" hearing for testifying for the state.

Four of the five accused were convicted in the "slots" trial. Da-

Sheriff Grall resigned shortly after the hearing closed, the resignation to take effect Nov. 1.

Inquiry Looms In Mail Bag Looting Bared In Spy Case

NEW YORK—(AP)—A state department investigation into the alleged rifling of sealed U. S. mail bags on German trans-Atlantic liners was forecast today as an aftermath of the Federal court trial of three defendants accused of filching American military secrets.

The mail bag looting—one of a series of exploits ascribed to members of a spy ring operating in this country—was disclosed by Guenther Gustav Rumrich, 32, confessed Chicago-born spy, who has pleaded guilty and testified for the government.

With indications that international complications affecting U. S. mail contracts might result, postal officials here said such a serious question as tampering with sealed mail bags on a foreign-owned ship would have to be referred to the state department in Washingotn, D. C., for action.

Rumrich late yesterday testified that Karl Schlueter, a fugitive indicted as a co-conspirator, formerly employed on the North German Lloyd liner Europa, boasted that he had ripped open a mail bag on the Europa, steamed open a letter and made a photographic copy of its contents.

He said Schlueter, describing the event as a "very lucky strike," showed him a copy of the letter, which concerned a contract between the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Amtorg Trading Corporation of soviet Russia.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Book of the Week

"ALL THIS, AND HEAVEN TOO," by Rachel Field (Macmillan: $2.50).

RACHEL FIELD by now must feel completely in command of her resources as a writer, or she never would have attempted the difficult task she has set herself in "All This, and Heaven Too." Nor would she have completed the task so successfully.

This is the book. It is the story of a certain governess—an ancestor by marriage of Miss Field's—who returned in the '40's, from London to her native Paris to take charge of some of the children of the Duc and Duchesse de Praslin. Her new situation placed her in a strained position; she found another governess in the house, determined to hold out against the newcomer. She found also that the Duchesse was a fool, and antagonistic. Most difficult of all, she found that the Duc admired her.

This situation resolved tragically. Henriette found herself involved in murder charges of considerable complication, defended herself, and then (of all things!) married a great uncle of Miss Field's. It is easy to imagine the consternation Henriette caused in the small New England village which was her first American home. Later she lived on Gramercy park in New York, and there she found herself considered delightful, much sought after and perfectly placed.

The difficulties for Miss Field are several. The basis of her book is fact, but there is not enough fact, and she must fill in with imagination. She likes and admires Henriette, as who would not? It was therefore all the more troublesome to try to see her as she really was.

In addition, verisimilitude demanded that a historical background be painted in, and possibly that certain family situations be painted out. That sort of thing is not easy. Finally, "All This and Heaven Too" is a period piece, and the period from the '40's to approximately 1875 is perhaps the most difficult of all to make live in a reader's mind. It is too distant for a wholly realistic treatment, and too recent to allow the writer freedom.

It seems to this reader that Miss Field has succeeded completely. In a sense, the climax comes at the middle of the book, but Miss Field is too practiced a writer to let it break her story in half. This is possibly the author's best work.

U. S. CONTROL OF WAGES, HOURS STARTS MONDAY

11,000,000 Workers Will Be Affected by 44-Hour Week, Minimum Pay Provisions.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Federal control over wages and hours in interstate industry becomes effective at 12:01 a. m. Monday, under the fair labor standards act of 1938.

After that hour it will be illegal for those covered by the statute to work more than 44 hours a week unless they are paid in money at the rate of time and one-half for the overtime. The minimum hourly wage becomes 25 cents.

The act was passed by the last congress and signed by President Roosevelt on June 25. It is estimated that 11,000,000 workers will be affected by its provisions.

Ultimately the law will establish a ceiling of 40 hours over the standard work week for those covered by the act and a floor of 40 cents an hour under wages. Approach to that objective is gradual.

Starts at 44 Hours.

Standards automatically established Monday morning provide for a 44-hour week and a minimum pay-rate of 25 cents an hour. The work week may be extended provided the employe is compensated in money for overtime at a rate one and one-half times the regular rate of pay.

The act undertakes also abolition of "oppressive child labor." Both with respect to child labor and the wage and hours standards imposed, enforcement of the act will bar from commerce all goods produced in violation of its terms or in violation of orders of the administrator, Elmer F. Andrews.

Several penalties may be assessed against violators. The maximum penalty for the first willful violation is a $10,000 fine. Penalty for a second willful violation could be a $10,000 fine, imprisonment for not more than six months, or both.

Effective Generally.

The act provides for industry committees. Some businessmen are said to be under the impression that the wage-hours provisions do not become operative in any industry until its industry committee has been appointed and has made recommendations to the wage-hours administrator. That is a mistake. Actually only one industry committee has been appointed—for textiles—but the provisions of the act become effective generally at the appointed hour.

Application of wage-hours provisions presumably will invalidate parts of existing union labor contracts which do not conform to the law now about to become operative. Included in the act is a paragraph stipulating that the new legislation shall not justify an employer in reducing wages paid in excess of proposed minimum wages nor justify increasing hours of employment which now are less than the maximum hours provided by the act.

The language, however, does not forbid and evidently is not enforceable. Therefore, it represents merely the hope of congress. Wage-Hours Administrator Andrews described that paragraph as a "pious hope." But he has urged that employers voluntarily conform to the policy suggested.

In addition to fines and imprisonment, there is provision for double-indemnity of employer to employe for violations. Recourse to the courts may be had, as follows:

1. Employes may sue to recover unpaid minimum wages or unpaid overtime compensation. Violating employers are liable for unpaid sums plus an equal amount as damages, and court costs including reasonable attorney fees.
2. Employers or employes aggrieved by a wage order may obtain review of the order in a United States circuit court but the court's power of review is limited to questions of law, the administrator's finding of fact being conclusive when supported by substantial evidence
3. The federal government may prosecute criminally for violations of the act or for discharge of, or discrimination against, any employe who has filed a complaint under the act or testified in a wage hearing. The administrator may ask a federal district court to restrain violations of the act by injunction.

The standard work week established by the act is as follows: Oct. 24, 1938 to Oct. 1939, 44 hours; Oct. 24, 1939, to Oct. 24, 1940, 42 hours; thereafter 40 hours The law does not prohibit employment in excess of the standard work week provided the employe is compensated in money (not time-off) at a rate not less than one and one-half times the regular rate.

Wage minimums are established:

1. Oct. 24, 1938, to Oct. 24, 1939, 25 cents an hour.
2. Six years from Oct. 24, 1939, to Oct. 24, 1945, 30 cents an hour.
3. Thereafter 40 cents an hour.

The wage and hours division has generally defined employes covered by the act and general exemptions.

Those covered by the act are:

1. Employes engaged in producing, manufacturing, mining, handling, transporting or in any manner working on goods moving in interstate commerce.
2. Employes engaged in any process or occupation necessary to the production of such goods.
3. Employes engaged in interstate transportation, transmission or communication.

TAKE WOODEN NICKELS

HUMBOLDT, Neb.—(U.P.)—Sometimes an adieu will include "Don't take any wooden nickles." But the admonition doesn't apply in Humboldt. A flood of soft pine coins advertising Humboldt as "the Bright Spot of the White Spot (Nebraska)" has been put into circulation by the Chamber of Commerce.

Lists Definitions For Occupations In Wage-hour Law

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, issued today definitions of professionals, executives, outside salesmen and persons engaged in a retail capacity, all of whom will be exempt from the fair labor standards act which becomes effective Monday.

At the same time, he announced that persons could apply for a revision of the definitions and possibly would be granted a hearing.

The definitions were:

(b) Who does no substantial amount of work of the same nature as that performed by non-exempt employes of the employer.

The term "employe employed . . . in the capacity of outside salesman" in section 13 (A) (1) of the act shall mean any employe who customarily and regularly performs his work away from his employer's place or places of business, who is customarily and regularly engaged in making sales as defined in section 3 (K) of the act and who does no substantial amount of work of the same nature as that performed by non-exempt employes of the employer. For the purposes of this definition, recurrent routine deliveries, whether or not prior orders are placed by the purchasers, and collections, shall not be considered sales.

Section 3 (K) of the act says that the terms sale or sell include any sale, exchange, contract to sell, consignment for sale, shipment for sale, or other disposition.

Average Man of 70 Spends Five Years By Eating

LONDON— (U.P.) —The average man spends five years of his life eating.

A group of expert investigators who have just concluded a detailed examination of the lives of ordinary people in Great Britain found that the ordinary man could eat all the food required for good health in half an hour, but he takes more than two hours at the table. Most of the waste is caused by waiting for meals to be served.

A man who lives to the age of 70, therefore, spends some 450,000 hours eating, or about five years.

The investigators also found that the average woman wastes 10 years of her life doing unnecessary labor in housework and answering the door-bell.

CHAPTER 24.

QUIETLY JUDY answered the intruder. "No, I'm not Abbey Boland. I'm in her employ, though."

"Which is his room?"

"Whose room?" Her hands were tired and she dropped them. The man didn't seem to mind.

"You know. The heartbreaker. The count—Count Phillippe Alexis von Gunderfield. Got a present for him, something pretty." He waved his gun. "Right through his lousy heart. That's where he'll get it."

"You don't like him much, do you?" Judy asked, playing for time to think.

"Not at all. Know what his family did? Took our land—swallowed it up with taxes, wrung blood from our souls—" There followed such a tirade of the whole Von Gunderfield family that Judy gasped.

"That's only part of what I think of them," the loquacious gunman ended.

"But the count is poor. His family needs a new bath tub so he's trying to get some money . . ."

"You bet he's poor and he's staying poor." His laughter, diabolic, yet quiet, shuddered in the night wind. "Don't get me wrong, sister. He didn't steal a girl of mine. No, he bids for money. Like this Boland dame. But I owe his clan a bullet."

There was a noise somewhere. The man swung over the railing. Before he dropped, he said: "I know his room. I'll get him yet."

Plainly the man was a fanatic. He had a real or fancied grudge against the Von Gunderfields. Maybe it had been handed down from one generation to another. Meantime, the count, sleeping peacefully, was probably in more danger than he ever had been in his romantic, roving career. Action must be quick.

Judy paused, one hand on the bell that would summon the maid. That would mean lights, voices excitement. When the din ended the interloper, still at large and now aware of the signal, would come back to mark two victims. It would be wiser to warn Count Phillippe privately. Then he would be on the alert and she would have done her duty and could go to sleep.

But how should she warn him? There was a telephone connection between all rooms in the many winged mansion, but at this hour no servant operated it. That was out. Abbey would be cross if she were awakened at this hour. She might tell Ronald. . . She wanted to tell Ronald. No, she must put him from her life, not rely on him again. Better to see the count himself. As it was, there was nothing to do but forget the whole matter, summon someone and waste priceless seconds entrusting that person with the secret, or knock on Count Phillippe's door. She chose the latter plan.

The wide hall was carpetted. The white doors were closed. Night lights burned dimly in their recesses. It was fortunate she knew in which room his grace, his highness, whatever you called a count, had been placed. She knocked. No sound. She knocked a little louder. She heard someone turning sleepily. The third time she beat a swift staccato message on the closed door.

"Who's there?" Count Phillippe was wakened thoroughly, judging from that tone.

"Hurry, meet me in the den. It's Judy Rogers."

"Judy! Hold everything!"

She spoke in a stage whisper, hoping he would hear. "Don't—turn—on—the—light. And hurry!"

It was a matter of seconds until he opened the door. To Judy it seemed to be long minutes. She reached beyond him and closed the door. Her knees felt weak. Now that the count had come to her without being stopped by a shot, she was feeling faint and wobbly.

He noticed and reached out a supporting arm. He made no sign that he was curious as to why she had summoned him at the crack of dawn. In a moment Judy withdrew from the arm. She felt better.

"I'm sorry," she said, and tried to smile. "I had to get you out of that room. You were about to be shot."

"Shot?" His eyebrows flew upward in wonderment. "I may deserve it but who would do it?"

"An old tenant of your family's. I saw him on the balcony flourishing a gun, and he told me about it. He's hunting you now. You can't go back to that room. If you'll wait, I'll go to my room and ring for the butler to move you."

"I'll stroll along, just for the walk."

Count Phillippe lounged against the wall while Judy entered her own room and rang the butler. She came back to the door, to wait with him.

She wasn't prepared for the searching glance of his dark eyes.

"Judy, why did you summon me—warn me, I mean? Why didn't you let the bozo shoot me? That would have been the end of the Von Gunderfields and plenty of people would enjoy burning the family crest."

"This is America. We don't let people be murdered in their beds when we know about it."

"It was more than that. You had a reason for coming. Judy, Judy, you don't realize it yourself?" He was silent, eyes still probing hers. "You know, you and I could have been happy together. We could have laughed a lot, and sang, and traveled, if— He shrugged his thin shoulders. "Never mind. We can't you know."

The supreme egotism of the man destroyed any fear for his safety that Judy had experienced. She moved away.

"—if I had not lost my money, you mean, don't you? I'm sorry to disillusion you but your charm hasn't made its usual impression."

The count laughed softly, his armor of self-confidence undented. "I never had a chance to try, you know."

Judy faced him, cheeks flaming, head high. "If you want to throw away your dowry and your bride, why not be man enough to say so? Why go crawling around for hidden means?"

"But I don't want to! I've no intention of doing so. You rapped at my door tonight. I was willing to die. I am glad to be alive, but the move, my dear lady, was yours.

He looked so foolish in his bathrobe, with his dark hair rumpled and his mustache bristling, that Judy relented.

"Here comes the butler. And now—good night!"

She did not open her door, though. Abbey's voice came floating to them. "Rather public for a meeting, don't you think? Sorry to intrude. Three people make a convention, I know, but all the talking awakened me. May I join you?"

"Certainly, my dear Abbey." The count put his arm around her. "Miss Rogers wakened me suddenly from my slumbers with a story of a maniac who wanted to shoot me. She saw him on the balcony. I'm afraid Miss Rogers was having a touch of nightmare."

Abbey examined his face carefully, then apparently decided to believe him. She was scornful as she gazed at Judy.

"What did you see, Miss Rogers?"

Judy repeated the story. It sounded silly and improbable now. Maybe they both thought she had dreamed it.

Abbey gave the butler instructions to have a housemaid prepare another hoom. She spoke to Judy: "I trust you aren't afraid to retire, Miss Rogers?"

Yearling Sells For $65,000 to Set Record Sale.

DONCASTER, Eng.—(U.P.)—Bidding at the rate of nearly $300 a second raised the price of the yearling colt by Bahram (triple crown winner) out of Trustful to $65,000 in four minutes.

At that figure the colt, a half-brother to the St. Leger, winner, Scottish Union, went to James V. Rank, owner of Scottish Union.

The final offer was the largest made for any Sledmore Stud yearling singe 1920, when Lord Glanely paid $72,500 for Blue Ensign.

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(U.P.)—In preference to cutting down two stately trees that barred the way, house movers here who were moving a house sawed the latter in half and then joined the halves together after passing around the trees.

Badgers Get Vote to Win

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

BETTING figures on Saturday's Mansfield-Shelby grid tussle at Skiles field shifted to virtually even money today.

Earlier in the week while followers of the Tygers and their followers were deep in their disappointment over the Sandusky whipping, the betting commissioners made Shelby the favorite with odds ranging from 2 to 1 to even money and points for Mansfield.

But this has all changed in the last few days, and it now looks like the Tygers and Whippets will renew their ancient rivalry at even money.

Disregarding the caliber of the foes, Shelby deserves the distinction as favorite in a comparison of records, but a feeling that Mansfield may make the Whippets pay for that Sandusky beating is becoming general.

Meanwhile, the Tygers are going about their chores on the practice with just that in mind. No team was more heartbroken over a defeat than Coach Russ Murphy's men of the grid after the game last Saturday.

It was a demoralizing setback, but the Tygers have shaken off the affects of the whipping rather well, and it is a team anxious to make amends that Murphy has in tow this week.

The Tygers figure they can gain a lot of satisfaction out of a victory in Shelby's park Saturday, and it will not be because they were not ready if they miss.

Incidentally, this is one of the few meetings between the two county schools in which Mansfield has everything to gain and virtually nothing to lose. In former years, it was just the opposite.

Oregon's Tough, But Fordham's Tougher.

IT doesn't cost anything to guess, and we can't be sued if we're wrong So here goes for this week-end winners on the college gridirons (we hope): Over in the east, Army should roll over Boston. Brown will come back at the expense of Rhode Island. Cornell won't take two on the nose in a row. So it looks bad for Penn State. Pete Henry should be able to smile after Washington & Jefferson gets through with Dickinson. Dartmouth's too tough for Harvard, and New York U. will avenge that 1937 defeat with Lafayette Manhattan's too tough for Georgetown. Princeton is just about ready to take Navy again Here's one: Columbia vs. Pennsylvania We like the Lions.

In the intersectional card, we're picking West Virginia over Creighton, Fordham over Oregon (and Oregon's tough, too), Holy Cross over Georgia, Colgate over Iowa, Texas Christian over Marquette, Syracuse over Michigan State, Notre Dame over Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh over Southern Methodist, Santa Clara over Arkansas and Michigan over Yale, but don't be surprised if a few upsets result.

One of the headliners on the mid-west bill is the Wisconsin-Purdue tussle. Don't leave that Pittsburgh beating fool you. A vote for the Badgers Northwestern can't be stopped by Illinois, and Ohio State should count up a lot of touchdowns against Chicago. Kansas looks too tough for Iowa State. So does Oklahoma for Nebraska Tulsa will take Oklahoma A. & M. Indiana over Kansas State

In our own backyard, Akron will again topple Baldwin-Wallace Western Reserve too strong for Cincinnati, Carroll to ride over Case, Dayton has Miami's number, Wooster is a good bet over Mt Union, Ohio Northern to keep on rolling over Bowling Green, Ohio U should not lose to Wayne, Ohio Wesleyan to take it on the chin again from Butler, Otterbein to avenge a 1937 defeat against Ashland and Marshall will romp over Toledo.

Down in the south and southwest, Alabama over Sewanee Auburn over Georgia Tech, Louisiana over Vanderbilt, North Carolina over Davidson, Duke over Wake Forest, Tennessee over The Citadel, Tulane over Mercer, Xavier over Kentucky, Baylor over Texas A & M., Rice over Texas.

Put us down for Colorado over Colorado State Washington State over Oregon State, Southern California over Stanford, California over Washington and U C L A over Idaho in the far west

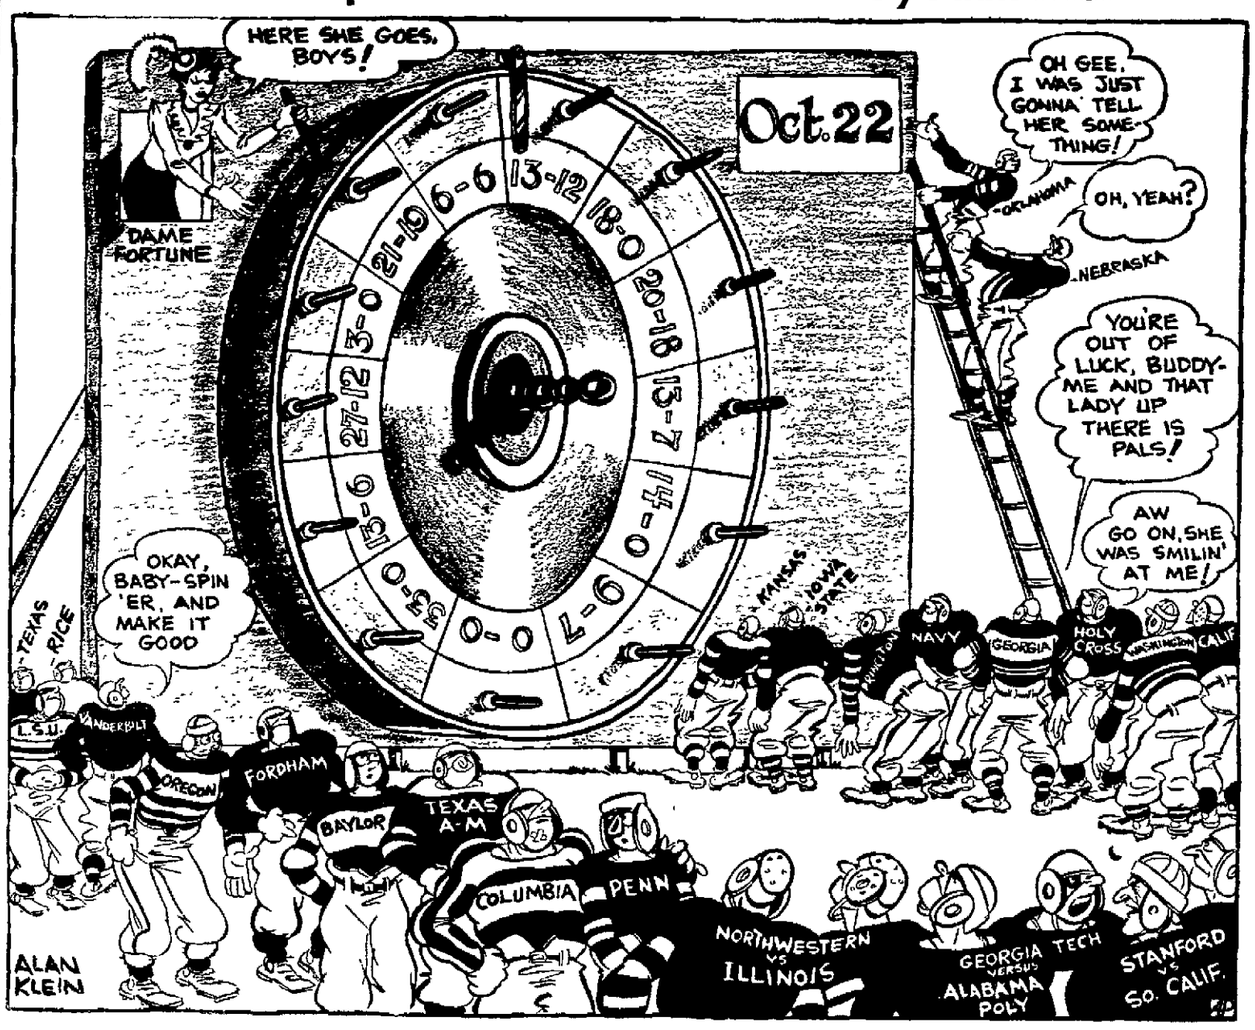
Medwick Almost a 'Sure Shot' to Wear Red Uniform.

EDDIE BRIETZ SAYS Marquette hasn't a football captain, but it has no less than 20 high school captains on its varsity squad.... A fellow named Pat Boylan writes from Minneapolis that when the Gophers kicked the goal and seven-to-sixed Michigan, a well-known headache tablet was retailing at 50 cents a single—and you can believe that or not. . . . Lou Smith, who usually knows what he is talking about, writes in the Cincinnati Enquirer that Joe Medwick is almost a "sure shot" to wear a Red uniform next season. What do you mean "almost," Lou? . . . Mike Jacobs is due back from the coast Friday with an important announcement relative to a Joe Louis-Max Baer bout in San Francisco in the spring. . . . If Frankie Frisch catches on with the Giants, don't be surprised. . . . That's what the New York papers are saying . . . I can't understand why Grimes, Durocher and all those guys get so steamed up over managing the Dodgers. . . . None of them has lasted more than a year or so

Where Will It Stop?

By Alan Klein



Willard Boy Ranks as No. 1 Buckeye Soph

Langhurst Is 'Brainy Type' Who Can Punt, Pass.

COLUMBUS— (UP)—In the midst of an advertised "breathing spell" in a tough 1938 schedule, Ohio State football followers had time today to "take stock" on a slowly developing class of pleasing sophomore gridders.

The progress of these yearlings, plummeted into key spots in the Buck machine because of loss of eight 1937 regulars and injuries to Lettermen Johnny Rabb, Nick Rutkay and Howard Wedebrook has removed the edge of a slight disappointment over only one Ohio State victory in the first three games.

Develops Punch.

Coach Schmidt today was engaged in development of a scoring punch among the sophomores and the 1937 veterans in the next two games against Chicago, Saturday in Ohio stadium and New York university one week later in New York.

Although not highly publicized in the early ballyhoo Jim Langhurst, a 168-pound back from Willard who stepped into the injured Rabb's spot at fullback, probably ranks as the No. 1 sophomore today.

Possessed with speed, brawn, punting and pass receiving skill, Langhurst stands out as a "brainy" type of player who has that sixth sense on the gridiron to be at the right place for the vital tackle or yardage that turns the tide in a close game Langhurst's latest accomplishments at Northwestern demonstrated uncanny ability as a line-backer and a punter

Not far behind Langhurst is Charley Maag, 210-pound giant tackle from Sandusky whose play at center has reminded fans of his great predecessors, Ralph Wolf and Gomer Jones

Certain to Develop.

Two other yearlings whose emergence as stars has been less speedy but none the less sure are Halfbacks Don Scott from Canton and Jim Strausbaugh from Chillicothe.

Madison Faces Norwalk Eleven

Bellville Host to Sunbury, Loudonville Entertains Danville and Mt. Gilead Goes to Fredericktown.

NO Mid-State league competition is on schedule this week-end, but all of the members will return to action, and victory prospects are bright in each instance.

Madison, Ohio's leading scoring machine, is host to Norwalk St. Paul's. Bellville, which is the only undefeated Mid-State league club, entertains Sunbury. Loudonville performs before the home folk against Danville and Mt. Gilead invades Fredericktown.

Leading the state scoring race, the Rams now have an incentive to pile up points, and they may not stop if they once get their scoring machinery in motion.

While the Norwalk club does not appear as a serious threat to the Rams' winning chances, St. Paul's lineup includes 10 seniors, and it might provide more opposition than Madison followers believe.

Good Tackling Club.

In scouting the team, Coach Al Fendrick found that St. Paul's is the best tackling club he has seen in action this year Coach Ralph Gabel's chief threat is Riedy, a 130-pound speedster.

St. Paul's has won two out of five games, losing to Upper Sandusky, recent Madison victim; Sandusky St. Mary's and Fostoria St. Wendlin.

Bellville, idle last week because of a scarlet fever scare, should not find Sunbury difficult as it seeks its fifth straight triumph.

Sunbury has shown improvement since bowing to Madison, but the Blue Jays pack more power than most Class B aggregations can halt. Sunbury, coached by Everett Whipkey, former Bellville coach, recently turned back Mt. Gilead.

Danville, which has scored only one touchdown this season, is not likely to bother Loudonville, which tied the Mansfield Reserves, 7 to 7, this week.

Fredericktown appears destined to take another one on the chin from Mt Gilead

All of these games are scheduled Friday afternoon except the Madison tilt, which will be staged under the Rams' incandescents

Butler, not scheduled last week, faces one of its major assignments of the year Friday at Centerburg, which boasts of one of the stronger Class B clubs in this section of the state. New London goes to Vermilion

Crestline, fired by its victory over Mt. Vernon, takes on Fostoria St Wendlin Friday in the Crawford county city in one of the better night attractions around here

Tests Presidents

Two N C O. conference games are on schedule Ashland goes to Marion to determine the Presidents' title chances, and Galion performs at Mt. Vernon, where the Yellow Jackets will be attempting to make up that Crestline setback. Galion will be seeking victory No. 6. Bucyrus is host to Kenton in a non-league affair, while Shelby waits until Saturday to return to action against Mansfield.

Amateur Star Dies In Ring

ROCKLAND, Me. — (AP) — Roy Worcester, Bangor heavyweight, faced arraignment today on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the death of 21-year-old Henry L. King, Worcester, Mass., fighter in a 10-round bout.

King, one-time New England amateur champ, collapsed and died as the bell rang ending his match with Worcester last night

He fell just after taking a blow on the head, but State Police Lieut. J. Edward Marks said he believed King had "started to crumple" before the blow was landed

STEELS, RAILS CLIMB DURING FEEBLE RALLY

Majority of Issues Lack Sufficient Buying Steam to Resume Climb.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Feeble attempts at a rally were made in today's early stock market proceedings, but many issues still lacked sufficient buying steam to resume the climb.

Edging forward were Bethlehem, Consolidated Edison, North American, Santa Fe, Great Northern, N. Y. Central, Anaconda, and American Smelting

Failure of the market Wednesday to respond to the generally good brand of news from motor, steel and other fields was taken by some to mean that more of a technical "correction" was necessary after the long upward ride. Bonds and commodities were quiet and moderately uneven.

A favorable construction was placed on the Dun & Bradstreet summary of the country's bank clearings for the week ended yesterday. The total was at a new top for 1938 and only slightly under the figure for the comparable week a year ago.

Early estimates of last week's freight loadings indicated a more than seasonal increase to around 725,000 cars, a new high mark for the year.

DEMAND SUNDAY 3.2 BAN AGAIN

Liquor Dealers, Rejected Twice in Plea for Longer Hours, Seek to Halt Beer Sale.

holders in Mansfield, voted 44 to 4 several weeks ago to renew their demands for Sunday closing after council had rejected their proposal for longer hours.

They also charged council with "stalling" on the proposed 3.2 ban and pointed out that such action had been voted in a number of Ohio cities including Akron, Canton, Newark, Massillon and Coshocton. The legality of such a measure has been upheld by the Ohio supreme court, they added.

Council rejected the permit holders' second request for an extension of hours in July after a special committee comprised of First Ward Councilman Russell D. Porch, Councilman-at-Large James E. Crum and Fourth Ward Councilman Lester D. Hunter recommended such a step.

The council group also recommended at that time that the Sunday ban on 3.2 beer be held in "abeyance" until City Solicitor Marion D. Ward could check on the legality of such an amendment.

The committee contended that 3.2 beer was classed as a beverage and that the city could take no legislative action prohibiting its sale

The liquor dealers' new demands for a Sunday beer ban ask that council make mandatory the closing of all establishments where intoxicating liquor or 3.2 beer is sold from midnight Saturday until 6 a. m. Monday.

TWO BURIED BY FALLING TOWER

Tons of Debris Fall On Workmen Razing Courthouse.

MAYSVILLE, Mo.—(UP)—Tons of debris fell on workmen who were tearing down the old Dekalb county courthouse today. A brick tower collapsed and two men were believed buried in the wreckage.

Robert Orr, 40, and Ray Edmonson, 45, were working in the section where the debris fell. They had not been accounted for an hour after the accident.

Laborers and volunteers dug in the debris in an attempt to find the men.

Most of the old building had been torn down. Blocks and tackles had been attached to the tower which was about 75 feet high and preparations were being made to pull it over when the wall caved in.

THEATERS

ONE of the few sensationally successful stage plays ever to make the transition to the screen without critics howling it down is "You Can't Take It With You," which is to be shown here next week. The stage play, with an excellent cast, was presented here last winter. In bringing this Pulitzer play to the screen, a minor but important shift has been made. Instead of focusing all interest on the fun-loving but screwy Sycamores, the picture gives equal attention to the rich Kirbys, and Director Frank Capra who directed Puckish laughter at the useless rich in "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," does the same thing in "You Can't Take It With You."

Five Star Feature.

Romance between blond Claire Trevor and the darkly intriguing Cesar Romero is offered as a sort of extra attraction in "Five of a Kind" in which the undisputed stars are the Dionne quintuplets. The stars, whose antics take up about one-third of the entire picture, look more alike than ever. They sing and dance, "play" the piano. The picture is really two distinct features, with the quints in one and the film players in the other. It opens at the Ohio today.

Harmonica Rascals.

The Borrah Minnevitch Harmonica Rascals, minus their leader, will be presented "in person" tomorrow and Saturday at the Madison. This unique group, which can bring symphony music out of ordinary mouthorgans, played the Madison the last week in September, last year, and drew capacity crowds. Their stage show will be augmented with a screen program which features "Campus Confessions" with Betty Grable, Eleanore Whitney and a cast of new faces.

Forsakes Comedy.

Mischa Auer leaves off comedy for a "horror" role in "Condemned to Live," one of the features at the Park the last half of the week. He plays a shriveled hunch-back in a story that deals with the old superstition of vampire-bats. Maxine Doyle and Russell Gleason are the romantic team. "Lady Tubbs," starring Alice Brady, with Anita Louise and Douglass Montgomery rounds out the bill.

Newspaper Story.

A fascinating murder mystery, in which a woman is on trial for killing her husband, and in which the real story of the crime turns up, not in the court room, but in the columns of two rival columnists from day to day, is pictured in "Personal Secretary" with William Gargan and Joy Hodges at the Majestic. Col. Tim McCoy in "Two Gun Justice" is also shown on the Friday-Saturday bill.

TITLE BOUT POSTPONED, GAINER ON SICK LIST

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — (U.P.) — Light Heavyweight Champion John Henry Lewis resumed training today and Challenger Al Gainer went to the doctor for a sinus treatment following a one-week postponement of their 15-round title fight scheduled for tomorrow night.

Climaxing a comic opera day in which the governor amended the Connecticut boxing laws and Gainer was taken into custody on a body writ, the postponement was ordered last night when it was learned that Al was suffering from a severe sinus condition.

TAKE A TIP FROM 960 MEN ON WHISKEY ECONOMY!

Out of 1,000 Men Who Sampled Old Quaker, Now 3 Years Old—960 Found It Smooth, Rich and Mellow . . . Supporting Our Belief Old Quaker Rivals Many Higher Priced Brands!

● Here's great news for every man who enjoys good whiskey but does not enjoy paying high prices for it. Old Quaker, now 3 years old, rivals many fine whiskeys that are more expensive. Here's why we think so: We went to 1,000 men and asked them to sample Old Quaker. "Smell it!" we said. "Taste it! Swallow a drink of it! And give us your frank opinion."

None of these 1,000 men knew the name, age or price of the whiskey he was trying, yet 960 commented on the smoothness, richness, mellowness of Old Quaker, confirming our belief Old Quaker is an amazing bargain at this sensational price.

J. C. McWilliams, Accountant, tries Old Quaker and remarks: "This is my type of straight whiskey."

J. T. Raiford, Engineer, tells Investigator Anderson: "Now I know why people like straight whiskey. I'll buy Old Quaker in the future."

What this Means to You

If these 960 men are right—here's a simple, direct way to save money on whiskey. Change to Old Quaker! Make this same simple trial yourself! And see for yourself if it isn't news for every thrifty drinker!

There are 249,000 more bear, antelope, deer, big-horn sheep, elk, moose and mountain goats in our national forests than there were a year ago. Our chief interest in the matter is just how the census taker goes about finding all that out.

G. O. P. 'KIDDING' DEMOCRATS SAY

Hit at Woodward Campaigning as Republican; Plan for Big Rally Saturday.

licans and conservative members of that party who are opposed to the Townsend plan.

Answering Hardy's charge yesterday that Communists in Ohio are actively supporting the Democratic slate, G. A. Baer, Democratic central committee chairman said today: "The Democratic party is still for Democrats. We have taken no other organizations under our banner just for the sake of a few votes. We are campaigning as Democrats, and not as supporters of any hair-brained ideas. Only Democrats are running for office on the Democratic ticket."

Plan Saturday Rally.

Party workers were concentrating today on arrangements for a big rally Saturday, at which Charles Sawyer, gubernatorial candidate, and Robert J. Bulkley, senatorial candidate, will be present as chief speakers.

The meeting which is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. is to be followed by dancing and entertainment at party headquarters on West Fourth street.

Saturday afternoon both Sawyer and Buckley will address 200 Democratic women who are expected to attend a joint luncheon of the 8th and 17th districts at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Mrs. Harriet B. Stuart, of Bucyrus, 8th district state central committeewoman will preside at the meeting.

Principal speakers at a rally of the Richland county Colored Democratic club at the organization's headquarters at 246 North Diamond street, tonight will be W. J. Rogers, representing the state treasurer's office.

Tomorrow night, the party will launch the first of a series of ward meetings at the Sons of Herman hall on Orange street, under the auspices of the Hungarian Social and Political club.

Ralph C. Lutz, candidate for re-election to the state legislature, and C. L. Mitchell, candidate for re-election to the board of county commissioners, and John Correll, president of the Richland county Young Democratic club are scheduled to speak at 8:30 p. m.

SPEAKS IN NEVADA

SHELBY—Rev. W. W. Ralph of the Cleveland Broadway Methodist church, formerly of the First Methodist church in this city, will speak this evening at evangelistic services in Nevada.

MOTHER IN 'IRON LUNG' HAS BABY

Paralysis Victim, 17, Fights For Life Following Birth.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont.—(INS)—Stricken with infantile paralysis and placed in an iron lung seven weeks ago, a girl mother fought for her life in a hospital here today after giving birth to a baby girl in one of the most unusual obstetrical cases on record.

The mother, Mrs. Halja Sarrikoski, 17, was removed from the respirator, for five minute periods as the birth progressed.

Finally the baby was born. It was a girl, weighing only two pounds, nine ounces. Born prematurely, the infant lived only 20 hours.

The birth, Dr. Ferguson said, did not affect the mother's condition, but she became worse today from a cold. Pulmonary congestion has also set in. Her condition today, he said, is "only fair."

Latest Motorola Auto Radios On Display Program

New models in auto radios will be among the many 1939 models displayed Friday and Saturday in the lobby of the Madison theater in the city-wide radio exhibit.

These will include the 1939 Motorola auto radio shown by the Goodrich Silvertown store, East Fourth and Diamond streets.

A feature of the new Motorola is the acoustinotor, which permits the human ear to hear radio broadcast programs with the same accuracy of tone that would be experienced if seated in a broadcasting studio. Tones or sounds within the range of the human ear are pitched in three broad classes, bass, middles and highs. Recognizing this Motorola engineers have developed a circuit which subdues or shades tones in the middle register so they produce an effect upon the ear that is pleasant and harmonious.

In addition to the auto radios, the Goodrich store will also display the new Motorola table and console radios.

FATE ENJOYS CHUCKLE

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— Police rubbed their eyes when called to investigate an automobile accident. The two automobiles were of the same make, style and color. The license number on one was 5BR17 and on the other it was 4BR17.

A SENSATIONAL NEW STANDARD OF COOKING PERFECTION BY MODERN Gas RANGES

THE symbol "CP" attached to a gas range denotes a new standard of performance, higher than ever before found on any one range. It is not a particular make of range but rather a mark of quality which any manufacturer may use on such of his ranges that meet the rigid requirements.

For years The American Gas Association has offered its seal of approval for ranges meeting certain minimum requirements of efficiency. The new CP gas ranges exceed these former standards in 22 important features. It is safe to say that, with the exception of automatic top burner lighting, no gas range of 10 years ago contained any of these 22 improvements. The new CP gas ranges are priced a little higher than ordinary ranges but they are worth more. Many families will continue to receive excellent cooking results on gas ranges that do not meet these new standards but, for those demanding the highest performance of a range using any fuel, the CP gas range is the answer.

CP Models on Display at Your Dealers

Some 16 leading manufacturers now are offering gas ranges carrying the CP seal. Visit your dealer in gas ranges and ask to see the new CP models. If your demands do not call for so many advanced features, you can inspect other quality gas ranges of smart design that will interest you.

Published by The Gas Company in the Interest of Better Cooking

WORLD SURVEY FINDS MASSES LIVING BETTER

Study Made for League of Nations Emphasizes Post-War Increase.

(By United Press)

GENEVA — Humanity's lot, judged from the larder and the wardrobe on the whole, is better than before the World war, according to Prof. N. F. Hall, director of Britain's National Institute for Social and Economic Research. His conclusions were made in a report prepared for the League of Nations.

From the Italian peasant to the unemployed artisan in Britain's depression areas, life is slightly better, Hall found.

"In neither of these countries," he said, "will there be found today those shoeless and ragged children who were common in pre-war days."

Hall pointed out further that Nazis, Communists, Democrats and Fascists all proclaim their devotion to the welfare of the people. Hence, he believes that while they may quarrel about the methods, the different ideologies may find neutral meeting ground in their common aim, and disputes over political methods "may be left to the final arbitration of history."

People More Conscious.

At the same time there has come a greater awareness of the problem of poverty, Hall believes. The radio, the cinema, better communications, have given to the masses a vivid idea of the different material well being, both among classes and among nations themselves. Governments, Hall said, no longer can afford to ignore that in framing their policies.

From a technical viewpoint, Hall discussed the most effective ways of utilizing the enormous resources won by modern science and technology for the benefit of the masses. Concerted efforts to raise their living standards, he indicated, would be followed eventually by greater international commerce.

Hall suggested that:

The state must withdraw active support from those sectional interests which impair improvements in national welfare and look for popular support in doing so by checking the effects of fiscal policy where it hits consuming power, especially that of the poorer classes. It should endeavor to increase consumption and production by controlling the relative prices charged for necessities, particularly where fiscal policy imposes taxes on these goods and on their transport and distribution.

Then through collaboration, states should endeavor to raise the consumption level of agriculture and industrial countries to increase the productive efficiency by measures aimed at expanding local interchange of agricultural products. Industrial states should endeavor to expand their own production of "protective" foods (eggs, milk, butter, etc.), and buy from the agricultural states larger supplies of fodder, crops and, in some cases, the bulkier foodstuffs.

Mattson Suspect

Said to fit the circularized description of the Charles Mattson kidnap slayer, Francis Curivan, 37, above, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was held by police at Columbus, O., for questioning. The suspect claimed he was working in Toledo, O., at the time of the Mattson kidnaping in Tacoma, Wash., in 1936.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1938.

Opportunity may not be doing so much knocking nowadays—but there are plenty of others.

We're always trying to solve Europe's problems for her, but that cynical old continent just lets us stew in our own juice.

"I'm as good a patriot as anybody," says a neighbor, "but regarding those arbitrary rules some people insist on when the national anthem comes on the radio, I'd like to know whether the anthem was made for Americans, or Americans for the anthem.

Clear Thinking.

First, regarding the nature of democracy, in which nearly all Americans firmly believe, but which we seldom analyze: "As Thomas Mann has pointed out, democracy is a spirit that must penetrate all the areas of life—the spirit of truth, justice and good will. It must penetrate not only the political and economic world, but the world of the intellect—culture, art, music, philanthropy, social and racial attitudes."

Second, regarding the Semitic problem now critical in so many foreign countries: "It would be wise if each one of us would carry in his own breast an anti-toxin against anti-Semitism. It would be well when we see and talk with our Jewish friends to say to ourselves: 'Your people gave us the greatest ideals the world has known. I am, sir, indebted to you forever'."

Good and Bad Houses.

A TRAVELING columnist who has been jaunting about the whole country for some time says he has gradually divided American architecture into two classes. Under "good" he lists "New England houses (and even barns); the pillared mansions of the old south; the adobe of the southwest; the log-lodge of the western mountains; the Spanish of southern California.

He finds "bad" the "awful rows of 'company houses' in the industrial and mining cities both east and west; the shacks of the poor south; the brownstone fronts left over from the last century; and most hideous of all, the plain, square double-decked, packing box monstrosity of the flat mid-west."

It is interesting to observe that he found both ugly and pleasing architecture in all parts of the country. It is also interesting that the "good" things are usually those that grew up naturally from soil and climate and were adapted to human comfort and gracious living. The "bad" structures are usually those which have arisen from neglect and poverty and hard living. As these ills are corrected, it may be assumed, the ugliness will disappear.

Worthwhile Campaign.

TOMORROW NIGHT, workers in the Y. M. C. A.'s annual membership campaign will be given final instructions and on Monday a campaign to enroll 1,000 Mansfielders as members of the Y. M. C. A. will get under way.

Partially supported by the Community Fund, the organization still depends on membership fees to conduct its program.

A Community Fund contribution is a gift—a Y. M. C. A. membership is not. It is a payment for services and benefits that the Y. M. C. A. makes available, if you want to make use of them.

It also provides, through your help, a widespread list of activities for Mansfield boys. That program covers athletics, outdoor recreation, and contributes most measurably to the building of character in Mansfield youth.

No one familiar with what the Y. M. C. A. does can question its value to the city, nor the reasonableness of being asked to support it through membership.

It maintained during the summer a day camp, a new project, which 230 boys attended. It sponsored softball leagues, with teams on which 350 boys played. There were numerous other activities, in which scores of others participated. All those activities, it should go without saying, were of the type to help develop boys into the right kind of manhood.

The Y. M. C. A. has a worthwhile program in Mansfield. It will be to the advantage of the city that its membership campaign succeed.

Russia Prepares.

MANY observers have been wondering what Russia would do, after her allies, Britain and France, ignored her in the big crisis and turned her little friend Czechoslovakia over to the tender mercies of Germany, Poland and Hungary. The mystery seems to be solved in a recent Associated Press report from Washington.

The Soviet Union is said to be "hastening construction of a vast, artificial no-man's land along its western frontier as a first line of defense against Germany," deforesting and depopulating a broad belt between her Ukrainian wheat lands and Poland. Also strengthening her western defenses all the way from the Black Sea to the Arctic ocean, destroying bridges, roads and railroads and building "Maginot Lines." If this is true, her isolation from European contagion will be almost complete.

"There is nothing left for her to do," said the veteran American journalist, Oswald Garrison Villard, recently, "but to fortify, fortify, fortify, diverting more and more of its man-power and wealth to preparing for war. They are realists in Moscow, which is something that cannot be said of Daladier or Chamberlain, and if the Russian generals know their business they are today recasting their plans in the light of the fact that the line-up against them in the west is now Germany plus England plus Poland, and probably the bigger states on the western boundary, with Japan on the other flank ready to sail in at the first opportunity.

"Peace in Europe? Chaos, that's what it is—absolute moral chaos, with not a single nation except perhaps Russia paying the slightest attention to the sanctity of treaties."

Business would get along better now if the statisticians would quit feeling its pulse every five minutes.

The millennium will be here when every American has pumpkin pie with whipped cream on it.

Keeping Step

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—If it were not that such a conclusion would be utterly untrue to form, knowing the slant of President Roosevelt and PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes on the electric industry and public ownership, one might almost assume that peace was in sight between the government and the utilities.

The developments are surprising. Electric Bond and Share figures several ways. First it announces it will submit to the securities and exchange commission on the death sentence situation. This follows the sale of its subsidiaries in Knoxville and, just prior to its "surrender" announcement, in Memphis. Incidentally most experts agree that Electric Bond and Share got pretty fair prices for both these properties. This is surprising, because the general impression had been that Electric Bond and Share was second on the list of best hated electric holding companies as far as the White House is concerned.

Whereas Commonwealth and Southern had been regarded as being pretty near the top of the most favored list, yet it is having a tough time getting the city of Chattanooga and other communities that want to roll their own to make fair offers.

All over the country cities and towns that had counted on PWA allotments for electric distribution, or generating plants, have been amazed at the dictum that they must make reasonable offers for the privately owned plants in their communities before federal money will be forthcoming. This is carrying out the so-called Barkley promise.

In the closing days of the last session of congress opponents of what they regarded as unfair government competition with private business were pressing for an amendment to the relief bill which would have prevented loans or grants to any cities where privately owned systems were already serving the public. To head off passage of this amendment, which looked very strong, Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic leader of the senate, promised that, if the amendment were not adopted, PWA would make no loans or grants unless reasonable offers to buy out existing facilities had been refused by the private owners.

Now the cities and towns desiring loans do not know what to do. They have very hazy ideas as to what a "reasonable" offer for the plant they want to buy is. In very few instances have they anything to go on except the figures of the existing company. As a result, they have appealed to Secretary of the Interior Ickes to loan them experts to make the calculations on which they will make their "reasonable" offers.

Incidentally such a service, of course, would get them by the hurdle of having made a "reasonable" offer. If the calculations had been made by PWA loaned experts, why of course PWA would regard the offers as "reasonable." If they were made by some other experts, and were attacked as unfair by the privately owned utilities, there might be a question when the matter of the loan and grant come up.

This advice, officials of many cities desiring loans and grants thought would also save them not only the expense of hiring their own experts, but would insure their not having to offer anything more than PWA would consider reasonable.

Naturally enough, the critics, for the most part, would infinitely prefer new construction. First, it would make work in the town. Second, there are no grants for purchasing existing facilities—in short no free money from Uncle Sam.

Reorganization Major Problem

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Governmental reorganization is certain to be strongly urged again soon after congress next assembles. It isn't exactly correct to call it RE-organization, either. The government isn't organized now and never has been. It would be more accurate to say that the fight will be to OR-ganize (not RE-organize) it. Inasmuch as the last congressional session's plan to organize the bureaus was beaten, it might be assumed that there is vigorous opposition to the organization (or reorganization) program. This isn't at all the case. It is agreed, with practical unanimity, that the thing needs to be organized. The last session's objection was not to organization, but to the kind of organization that President Roosevelt favored.

The organization idea is no new thing. For years it has had its advocates. President Hoover, in particular, urged it strenuously, but not in the same form as President Roosevelt.

The United States started off with very few so-called "independent offices," such as clutter up Washington at present. With time's passage a succession of problems began to present themselves which congress didn't have the leisure to bother with.

Consequently, it began the creation, now and then, of a commission, a board, a bureau or some such thing, to specialize on these various puzzles. For example, years ago, as the railroad situation started to become complicated, the Interstate Commerce commission was legislated into existence. These outfits were supposed to be answerable to congress; not to the president.

Illustratively, the accountant general's job specifically was made irremovable by the White House. Congress could remove him, by impeachment, but the president couldn't under any circumstances. Which just goes to show how jealous congress was of its authority.

It was all very well for while "independent offices" were not so numerous. But today there are hard onto 100 of them. Many were created to deal with temporary emergencies, which have passed, and these special bodies ought to be abolished. Jurisdictions and duties overlap; they're wasteful and confusing. Yet it's next to impossible to terminate a federal group, once initiated; there are jobs and salaries in it—and congressmen want them for patronage purposes.

Inside the cabinet departments, too, there is a redundancy. For instance, there are legislators who think the war and navy departments could be compacted into one. They were one in the first place. It also is reasoned that the interior department has outlived its usefulness. As for "independent offices," unquestionably they could be condensed into half their number.

Well, Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia was appointed chairman of a congressional committee to recommend governmental reorganization. Casually, I wrote a news story to the effect that these reorganization schemes usual contemplate the creation of an additional cabinet department.

The senator, irritated, wrote me that his committee had discussed no such expansion. He asked me to correct myself. I was in a position to do so.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt had established a commission, principally under the direction of Louis Brownlow, which proposed the creation of TWO new cabinet departments. I was wrong, all right; it wasn't one. It was two. Furthermore, all these commissions, et cetera, were created by congress. If they're to be scrambled, congress wants to do the scrambling.

On the contrary, President Roosevelt wants to do it, considering congress incompetent—which it is, undoubtedly. Nevertheless—which is the democratic method?

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Creole"—A Matter of Geography.

Like morals, creoles are a matter of geography.

In Louisiana and its contiguous Gulf states, creoles are the white descendants of the original French and Spanish settlers.

Alaska too boasts its creole contingent, comprising the scions of Russian and Indian stock.

The Latin countries of South America also have a creole caste whose only eligibles are those of unalloyed Spanish extraction.

Other locales, other creoles, the common requirement generally connoting nativity, race, good breeding and culture.

The English word "creole," identical with the French and similar to the Spanish form, may be a corruption of the Castilian criadillo, in turn a diminutive of criado, stemming from the Latin creare to create.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Raising Federal Taxes.

By ELIOT JONES
Professor of Transportation and Public Utilities, Stanford U.

A plan will come before the California voters in the November election to give persons who are 50 years old $30 every Thursday. In this article we shall explain why the plan is unjust.

It is unjust because it creates a highly favored group solely on the basis of age. All persons who are 50 years old, and who are qualified to vote, and who were legal residents of the state during the year ending November 8, 1938, are to receive $30 every Thursday. They not only need to do nothing to earn this sum, but they are specifically forbidden to earn it, for the payments are made only to those applicants who will swear that they will not accept employment for pay, and who will further swear that they will not employ any person in the production of goods and services for sale or hire.

A man may be a millionaire, and continue to work, but that will not prevent his wife, if over 50 from receiving the pension. A man may be a confirmed drunkard, of no value to society, but he will still get $30 a week. He may have done time in a penal institution, and thus not be qualified to vote, but he will still get the pension.

This is because the proposed plan specifically provides that the requirement that applicants shall be qualified to vote shall be waived in the case of former inmates of penal insritutions, if they have ever been citizens of the United States.

Under the plan a married couple over 50 will receive $60 a week, or $3,120 a year. As everyone knows, this is much more than most laborers get, even if their wages are supplemented by some earnings on the part of the wife. And the workingman under 50, by his labor, creates goods and renders services, whereas the pensioner over 50 is paid for doing nothing. The injustice of this discrimination is increased by the fact that the workingman under 50 probably has more dependents than the pensioner over 50, especially since the act provides that no person receiving a pension shall be required to use any part thereof for the support of any relative or other person over 18.

The plan is unjust for other reasons. It provides that buyers and sellers of merchandise and services are relieved of all California sales taxes (except gasoline taxes), if payment for the merchandise and services is made in warrants, thus discriminating against those who pay for goods and services in lawful money.

It provides that no person or corporation need pay any state income tax on that percentage of his taxable income which is equal to the percentage of warrants received at their face value in trade or exchange, thus discriminating against those whose income is received in lawful money rather than in warrants.

The plan is unjust to government employes because they must take half of their pay in warrants and to keep the warrants good a two-cent stamp must be affixed every Thursday. The compensation of employes is thus reduced by two cents on every dollar of warrants in their possession on a Thursday.

It is unjust also because it provides that pensioners shall receive increases in pensions to compensate them for the increase in prices that is apparently anticipated, but it makes no provision for other recipients of fixed incomes whose purchasing power is reduced as prices rise. Should prices fall, however, the pensioners will continue to receive their $30 per week.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Trumpet Creeper.

Are you the bugle of the dawn
For forest folk, bright trumpet? Are
"Taps" sounded by your timely aid
When faintly glows the night's first star?

Your orange horns, available,
Are haply hung on bush and thee,
A challenge for all elfin sprites
That might be stirred to minstrelsy.

On some still night does music rise
Too subtle for dull ears of clay,
And waft to realms beyond our ken
As unseen pipers gaily play?

Do elves and fairies then engage
Your vivid horns for revelry
And, blithesome, dance upon the green
Beneath the woodland's brightest tree?

What's the Other Fellow Got That You Haven't?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

You'd like to go places, do things with your life, wouldn't you?

And you wonder why you can't. You're sufficiently bright . . . you work as hard as the next one . . . you both know and like your job. Yet, year after year, you stick in the same old rut while, all around you, others shoot ahead. WHY? What's wrong? What has the other fellow got that you haven't?

YOU'D BE SURPRISED!

A great scientist—Dr. Albert E. Wiggam—asked himself that same question recently, thinking of you and millions like you. Said to himself, "What one asset, above all others, is most valuable to a worker, any kind of a worker, from a $20-per-week to a $20,000-per-year architect? Given equal intelligence, equal knowledge and opportunity, what one quality determines that worker's failure or success?"

Dr. Wiggam found an answer to his question in a survey made by the famous psychologist, Doctor Wells, who had taken several hundred representative executives, all of whom had about the same education and general opportunity. These men he divided into two groups. The first group received below $1800 yearly for their work . . . the second group from $5000 up.

"What," said he, "made the difference?" And then proceeded to analyze every detail of their characters and careers.

Recently, at the dedication of a new engineering building at Bucknell university, Lewisburg, Pa., he broadcast his findings. And an amazed world sat up and listened! For what do you think he'd found? What was the secret of one man's failure—the reason for another man's success?

Intelligence? Training? Information? Personality? Industry? No—in these, both groups were equal. The poorest man in the lot was as well equipped for his job as the richest . . . knew as much about its technique . . . worked as hard and as willingly. But in one—and only one—respect they differed:

The "upper bracket" earners had IMAGINATION—the others didn't!

One group, coming to their desks, saw only the jobs before them. Saw rules . . . figures . . . designs . . . estimates . . . all the precepts and paraphernalia of the engineering trade . . . used them conscientiously, industriously . . . and received mediocre payment for a mediocre job.

The other group also saw the job awaiting them . . . also observed the requirements, used the equipment of their profession. But to this routine program they added that intangible yet invincible asset which can never be defined by a rule or expressed with a tool . . . they added IMAGINATION. Rules and tools provided simply a basic platform—but IMAGINATION GAVE THEM WINGS. And with those wings they soared into new ideas, new worlds, that no technique could contact—no rules could reach.

Why did the receive $12,000 where their fellow workers received only $12.00?

Because, by the use of imagination, they reached out, beyond the tangible and conventional forms of expression, into the chaos of unborn ideas—and became inspired creators.

But the others remained mere pluggers . . . earthbound by conformity.

What's the other fellow got that you haven't?

Why does the little woman in the next apartment find perpetual delight in her housekeeping, where you find dreary drudgery? Why does the merchant on the other corner, in a space no larger than yours, without almost identical stock, create a new service which brings crowds of delighted customers flocking to his door . . . while you pace an empty floor, chewing your nails in envy, tearing your hair over mounting bills?

Because in both cases the "other fellow" uses IMAGINATION!

"But that," you whine, "is just their good luck. They were born like that—"

No, they weren't! Imagination isn't inherited . . . or acquired . . . it's developed. Each time you reach out from the obvious situation before you . . . each time you delve beneath the surface of things into their hidden meaning, into their possibilities, you develop your imagination. For imagination is simply imagery . . . the act of creating in your mind that which you have not seen in reality. And there is no mind so stupid or timid that it cannot create, if it will.

Suppose you think it over . . . Suppose you stop complaining about the dingy kitchen . . . that dreary job . . . and think what they might be.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Actors and actresses speak their minds sometimes, even when married to one another, as witness this scene from the private lives of Charles Laughton and his wife, Elsa Lanchester.

It seems that Mr. Laughton is somewhat fat, as confessed by himself and also by his wife. Remarking on this in a preface to his biography, which was written by Mrs. Laughton, Charles says:

"When I was rehearsing in 'On the Spot,' Edgar Wallace's play, in which I had to wear smart clothes and go about the stage kissing the women, I came home one night in a state of despair, sullen and nasty, and said to Elsa: 'I know they (the public) won't stand for this. I've got a face like an elephant's . . . and in this play I have to do the big sex act.' . . . She turned on me like the proverbial tiger cat and whipped out: 'How dare you presume you are unattractive! Hold your shoulders back, keep your head up and smile, so that I can hold my head up with other women!' Can you beat that? I owe her plenty."

YOU will find this excerpt in the preface of "Charles Laughton and I," published by Harcourt Brace and while it is not, strictly speaking, a true biography of this distinguished British actor, it does give one an insight into the things that amuses Laughton off stage, some very readable anecdotes concerning his experiences in Hollywood, and the double-harness life he and his actress-wide lead, whether kicking around the sound stages of a film studio or playing Shakespeare at the Old Vic.

FOR instance, "On one night of the year when the moon is full, a strange thing happens on the Pacific coast. There are little fish called grunion that come up on the beach in great numbers on a moonlit night. They stand on their tails, twiddle around and go back to deep water . . . One night when we were at the Thalberg's house I saw Jean Harlow with a little fish in her hand. It was alive, and she put it into a bowl of flowers.

"I had an idea that it might be a grunion as they were about due. If so, I knew it would die in fresh water and I thought it had better go back into the sea. I took it out of the bowl of flower water and rushed into the garden and down on the beach. Then I discovered that the beach was covered with grunion, and that people were catching them in their hands and handkerchiefs.

"I had taken my shoes off and had my evening dress up around my knees. Knowing Charles would be wildly interested, I dashed back into the house, crying: 'The grunion are running! The grunion are running!' Nobody took any notice except Charles and Jeanette MacDonald. We all three ran out and paddled about in the water. The sea was so full of grunion that it seemed as if one's legs were being massaged by them. We did not try to catch any. We just watched them go up on the beach, twiddle around on their tails and slip back again."

A Farmer's Diary

End of a Day.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

SUPPER over, and the two younger children asleep, we left the older ones washing the dishes, and my companion and I strolled out into the moonlight.

We walked across the turnip patch, the remnant of orchard, the rolling stubble field, until we reached the black fringe of woods. Near the southern edge, a giant fallen elm has been furnishing me with exercise whenever I find time. I have sawed and trimmed more than half of it, and rolled the logs together for buzzing. Here we stopped, while I showed her the pile of wood I had made.

We sat upon a pair of logs. The night woods cast upon us its quiet spell. The evening air was warm and hazy. A high October moon rode in the sky, and distant sounds came clearly to our ears. Yet, near at hand, only the katy-dids, the crickets, and an occasional owl made themselves heard. Gradually our conversation ceased. We sat awhile, just listening—sharing the charm of the shadowy woods, the sweep of the moonlit sky through lacy trees, the wideness and the grandeur of the stars.

On the way back, we paused atop the knoll in the buckwheat field, the highest point on the farm. From here, in daylight, one can see over the entire acreage. Tonight, upon that knoll against the woods, under the magnitude of the night sky, we seemed but two black specks. Far across the field a yellow, oblong window made alive our low, dark farmhouse. It stood to us for warmth and cheer, for welcoming smiles of children strangely like ourselves. It stood for home.

We felt rested and refreshed. Our weariness and cares had, somehow, slipped away. The music of the friendly, fragrant night was in our senses, and in our hearts. Walking briskly back toward that radiant, beckoning light, we made new, hopeful plans for what must be done tomorrow.

TAFT HITS AT WPA 'PADDING'

Senate Candidate Tells 800 Here 5 Years of New Deal Has Only Boosted Debt.

agency in our economic system."

"For the government to go into business and dictate to the industries what they shall do is pure and rank Socialism," he said.

He added that "no one ever carried out a program of planned economy."

"You can show on paper how to create greater prosperity by such means, but it has never been done."

Despite almost complete control for the past five years, the administration has not solved the unemployment problem, and there are still more than 11,000,000 persons out of work, Taft declared.

"The only way the problem will ever be solved will be to lift the regulations on private business and permit small industries to absorb the workers," he said.

Declaring that "the farm program has failed completely," he added that "the administration limited production when it should have been increased and as a result our imports of farm products increased a billion dollars in 1937."

"The Republican party has brought the nation out of every previous depression, and it can do it again," Taft said. "We need to get back where the government minds its own business and balances its budget," he added.

Backs Woodward.

Taft urged the election of John W. Bricker for governor, Walter B. Woodward for congress and the other Republican candidates for state offices.

Asked to comment on the presence of Woodward, a Townsend plan supporter, on the Republican ticket, Taft said: "If both Mr. Woodward and I go to Washington, I shall favor giving his plan a fair hearing in congress but that's as far as I'll go with it. I'm not endorsing the plan."

He said the Richland county Republican organization "did the logical thing in endorsing Woodward for congress and staying clear of his Townsend program. It was the wisest thing to do."

Immediately after his talk here, Taft left for Ashland to speak, while Woodward and Don Ebright, G. O. P. candidate for state treasurer, came to Mansfield from the Ashland rally.

Ebright, who is opposing State Treasurer Clarence Knisley, Democratic candidate for re-election, charged that the expense of the treasurer's office has gone up 25 per cent in the past year.

Hits At Knisley's Band.

"Part of that additional expense may be going for the treasurer's swing orchestra. We need a special entertainment fund for that sort of thing," Ebright asserted.

The increased cost of operating the treasurer's office comes in the face of a marked decrease in sales tax revenue, used for government operation, he pointed out.

The orchestra to which Ebright referred is Knisley's dance band which he organized from employes in his department and which appeared in Mansfield recently at a Democratic rally.

"The only way to erase deficits in state government without increasing taxes is to economize, and I doubt if the party in power can effect economies amounting to $45,000,000 if it is returned to power," he said.

Woodward, the Townsend-backed candidate for 17th district congressman, warned that "if we (Republicans and anti-New Dealers) fail this fall, it will probably be too late to save the day in 1940, because we are just that close to dictatorship. We already have five or six installments on a dictatorship."

Referring to a statement "printed in one of the newspapers in the district that I have worn out more rocking chairs than any other man in Richland county," Woodward said, "let me tell you right now that we haven't any time to be wearing out rocking chairs between now and Nov. 8."

Making no reference to the Townsend plan, he asserted that "I am opposed to the New Deal wrecking crew. I stand for constitutional government and by that I mean the opposite of the kind we've had under the New Deal."

Woodward spoke only a few minutes.

Other candidates and Republican leaders who spoke briefly at last night's meeting were Charles W. Montgomery, candidate for judge of the court of appeals; Harry H. Maxwell, candidate for state representative from Richland county; John C. Friday, candidate for county commissioner; Probate Judge C. J. Anderson and Philip Wolfe, former Mansfield service-safety director.

Atty. Stuart H. Cramer, secretary of the county Republican executive committee, presided during the session. Music was provided by an accordion band from the Eugene Smart studio.

Pledges G. O. P. to Change Wagner Act

WARREN —(AP)— John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, asserted today Republicans would seek amendments to the National Labor act in the interest of "fair play" for workers, employers and the American Federation of Labor.

Republicans, Hamilton added in an address prepared for delivery here, "agree generally" with amendments proposed recently by the A. F. of L. convention.

"They agree because they believe that government should be an umpire to enforce fair play—not a partisan of one faction or organized labor," Hamilton declared.

He did not mention by name the C. I. O., A. F. of L. rival, but declared Republicans agreed with William Green, Federation president, that administration of the Labor act had been "biased."

"And why should not the National Labor Relations act be amended?" Hamilton asked "certainly it has not brought the peace and harmony between labor and industry for which it was designed."

The speaker predicted that "economic recovery will leap forward" following election next month of Republican candidates in Ohio and other industrial states.

Speaking last night in Dayton and Middletown, Hamilton said Republicans had no intention of repealing numerous New Deal measures if they should come into power.

After crediting improving business conditions to prospects of a Republican victory in November, the red-haired Kansan told political rallies:

"There are New Deal propagandists who glibly tell you that if Republicans come into control, they would repeal the Social Security act, Federal Deposit Insurance, the Securities and Exchange act, the Labor Relations act, and a number of other measures. There is not a word of truth in such contentions."

He declared that Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) fathered the federal deposit insurance system over opposition by President Roosevelt and added:

"Yet today the presidnt claims credit for this reform and his henchmen go about the country asserting that if Republicans are elected to congress they will repeal this legislation."

Hamilton escaped injury but was delayed when his automobile hit a tree near Mechanicsburg late yesterday.

'TORTURE' HOAX, GIRL, 18, ADMITS

BOWLING GREEN — (INS) — Sheriff Arnold Isch reported today that 18-year-old Betty Gazerek, of North Baltimore, who told officers two men held her prisoner, repeatedly attacked her and then left her lying in a ditch after painting obscene words on her body, had admited her story was a hoax.

Isch quoted the girl as saying she spent a night in a hay loft in a barn on a friend's farm, tore her clothes and painted the words on her body, then went out and lay in a ditch until she was found.

Isch said the girl told him her father forbade her having a date and she invented the hoax "to get even with him."

the state yesterday and last night.

Sawyer earlier had appeared at the Ohio Building Association league's convention here, together with Bricker and Robert A. Taft, Republican senatorial candidate. All commended efforts of league officials to bolster public confidence in loan institutions.

Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, New Deal stalwart seeking re-election, denied in a Toledo address that he had been merely an administration "yes man" as charged by Republicans.

One of the most talked about addresses scheduled tonight was the one by Charles West, confidant of President Roosevelt, at Ashland. West brushed aside Secretary William J. Kennedy's statement that Ohio Democrats would not welcome "outside interference" in the campaign. He said he would speak at the behest of Arthur Limbach, Democratic state chairman.

'Frantic Falsehood,' Bricker's Reply.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Republican John W. Bricker asserted today that Charles Sawyer's campaign charges that he made a "deal" with Gov. Martin L. Davey were "frantic falsehoods of a desperate candidate."

Bricker declared in a prepared statement that Sawyer, Bricker's Democratic opponent for governor, was "vainly trying to raise some fake issue that would take public attention away from Sawyer's proven connection with the radical CIO leaders."

"My opponent says that I made a 'deal' to sell the Democratic party down the river," Bricker remarked. "Sawyer sold the Democratic party down the river when he put his campaign into the hands of radical CIO leaders. Sawyer sold the Democratic party down the river when he welcomed Francis Poulson (state party chairman under Davey) into his camp. Sawyer sold the Democratic party down the river when he agreed to give Burr Gongwer (who split with Davey) everything he wants in Cuyahoga county."

ACTIVITIES OF 'REDS' IN LABOR STRIFE TRACED

Dies Committee Calls Detroit Police Heads to Testify About 'Sit-Downs.'

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The Dies committee investigating un-American activities, today called Fred Frahm, superintendent of the Detroit police and deputy police commissioner, to testify on what part Communists played in the sit-down strikes which paralyzed the automobile industry last year.

Frahm was expected to name a lengthy list of Communists accused of fomenting and developing the sit-down strike technique.

Testimony charging that the United Automobile Workers of America, CIO affiliate which played the major role in the 1937 strikes, is "now completely dominated" by Communists was given by Ralph Knox, former president of the UAW Local 212, Detroit.

Says Membership Drops.

He said that when he headed the union in 1937 its membership reached a peak of 24,000 and dues were "coming in so fast we couldn't find places to bank them." He charged that because of "the disgust of many in the union with the rise of Communist control" the membership has now dropped to approximately 10,000. Knox claimed he was ousted by the Communists and replaced by Emil Muzey, whom he termed a "fellow traveller" of the Communists.

Knox, a native of Tennessee who boasted that he had led and won 42 strikes in various parts of the nation, created a minor sensation when he made charges that two administration officials had attempted to induce him to become a Communist in 1935 when he spent 30 days in Washington on a National Labor Relations Board case.

Claiming that he could not remember their names "for certain," he said that as he recalled it, one of the officials was "Ben Wolf—or Wood—an attorney for the National Labor Relations Board, and a man named Eldridge, with either the NRA or the national advisory conference."

"They introduced me to persons all over town trying to get me to become a member of the Communist party," Knox testified. "One of them was a man who worked in the White House postoffice whose name I do not recall. Another was organizing a strike in Hugh Johnson's (NRA administrator) office—Henderson, Leon Henderson, I think his name was."

Rep. Mosier (D., O.), a committee member, suggested that he meant to name "John Donovan," as the man organizing the strike in Johnson's office. Knox finally said that he believed "Donovan" was the man, not "Henderson." Knox testified that the group also introduced him to a girl, "named Miss M. Bell" who showed him around Washington and introduced him to Communists.

URGES EARLY VACCINATIONS

Specialist Says Treatment Should Begin at 4 Months in Talk to Physicians.

The immunization and vaccination of babies against contagious diseases at intervals of four months during the first year of the infant's life was advocated last night by Dr. Robert A. Lyons of the University of Cincinnati in a talk before 140 physicians at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Substituting for Dr. A. Graeme Mitchell, of Cincinnati, who was scheduled to talk, Dr. Lyons spoke at the fourth of a series of regional postgraduate lectures sponsored by the Ohio State Medical association.

"In tests at the University of Cincinnati we have found that the best method is to immunize against whooping cough when the child is four months old, against diphtheria at eight months and then vaccination against smallpox at one year," Dr. Lyons said.

The other speaker, Dr. Waldo E. Nelson, also of the University of Cincinnati, said tuberculosis can rarely be detected in babies except by the X-ray method.

"The ordinary diagnosis is ineffective in most cases with infants," he asserted, "because it takes more than a stethoscope and chest-tapping to reveal the symptoms of the disease."

He said a child never inherits tuberculosis, but it may inherit a tendency for the disease and then contract it through close association with an afflicted parent.

Approximately 30 wives of visiting physicians from 13 North Central Ohio counties were entertained by the wives of Mansfield doctors at a card party at the hotel during the session.

The plan was so successful that it will be continued at the four remaining meetings, Dr. Mabel Emery of Mansfield said.

Scoop Up Jewels as Detectives, Pedestrians Pass Nearby.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Three daring bandits boldly invaded the Waldorf Astoria hotel today to seize $50,000 in gems from a jewelry store in its lobby.

While guests and hotel detectives passed within a few feet of the Roy W. Johnston jewelry shop, the thugs coolly bound and gagged Johnston and two employes, scooped up their glittering loot and fled.

Entering the store through its rear entrance the bandits flourished weapons a few moments after clerks in the shop had obligingly produced several trays of diamonds and other precious stones.

TARRED, FEATHERED EVANGELIST TELLS STORY TO JURORS TODAY

(By Associated Press)

MARIETTA—A score of witnesses were called today for opening of a grand jury investigation into application of tar and feathers last week to Evangelist Joseph A. Dixon, 42, about an hour after he married Opan Hasley, 22, despite objections of her father.

The Nazarene preacher, who came to the Newell's Run community south of here from Madison, S. D., accused his bride's father, Wesley Hasley, 65, and nine of the latter's relatives and friends, of kidnaping, beating and tarring and feathering him because of the marriage.

Dixon said he was torn from the side of his bride the night of Oct. 10 as they celebrated their wedding at the home of friends and taken into the country by a crowd, some of whom he recognized. He was found sprawled beside a road the following morning.

Justice of the Peace N. E. Kidd on the preceding day had dismissed for lack of evidence a misconduct charge filed against Dixon by Hasley.

All except Floyd Pritchett posed $1,000 bail each for release pending investigation by the Washington county grand jury which normally would not convene until January. Pritchett, a minor, will appear before Juvenile Judge Frank F. Fleming.

Despite Hasley's insistence of innocence, Dixon's blond bride has asserted she would stand by her husband. The evangelist met his wife at meetings which he has been conducting in this region since July 10.

EXTENDS SOCIAL DISEASE DRIVE

Health Department Sets Up Night Clinic With Funds Received From U. S.

The Mansfield public health department today had extended its veneral disease control program with the establishment of a night clinic.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said the expansion of the clinic service had been made possible by a $800 allocation in federal funds which is part of the $110,000 distributed throughout Ohio by the state department of health.

A federal grant was authorized by congress early this year to be used exclusively for veneral disease control, Dr. Rehder said.

The expanded program now will include a clinic one night a week to supplement the daytime clinic now maintained twice weekly, the commissioner explained. The night clinic has been established exclusively for persons who could not leave their work during the day, he said.

Dr. Rehder announced that Dr. Frank H. Maxwell had been retained by the department to conduct the weekly clinic. He will be assisted by a health department nurse.

New Prexy Says Church College Forestalls Chaos

ALLIANCE—(AP)—Dr. Charles Burgess Ketcham in his inaugural address as he was inducted as fifth president of Mt. Union college said today that "the church-related college is the only hope of saving this generation from confusion and chaos."

Faculty members, the student body and representatives from 161 colleges, universities and educational institutions heard Dr. Ketcham open a four-day program of ceremony and celebration.

"The significance and unique contribution that the church-related college can make toward the preservation of democracy," the new president said, "is the support it gives to the democratic spirit of the nation. In some nations democracy has been completely outlawed. In others it is seriously threatened. Even in our own country there are those not wanting who believe that it is today fast coming to a close."

The college conferred honorary Doctor of Laws degrees on three persons. They were Louis H. Brush of Salem, O., president of Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc.; William A. Mitchell of New York City, head of the foreign exchange department of J. P. Morgan Co., and a member of the executive committee of the Public Education Association of New York City, and Dr. Oscar T. Olson of Cleveland, pastor of the Epworth-Euclid church.

80,000 MARCH IN NEW ORLEANS

Solemn Two-Mile Procession to Close Eucharistic Congress Today.

(By Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS—An estimated 80,000 persons awaited today the signal starting them in a solemn, two-mile procession marking the close of the eighth national Eucharistic congress.

Plans called for formation of the procession late in the afternoon, followed by movement to the football stadium in City park for the benediction, with George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, papal legate, a celebrant.

Earlier today came the solemn pontifical mass for women at City park with the Most Rev. Amleto G. Cicognani, D. D., arch-bishop of Laodicea and apostolic delegate to the United States, as celebrant.

The sermon, "The Holy Eucharist in a Christian Democracy," was prepared by the Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, D. D., archbishop of Milwaukee.

"Nothing confounds good men today in their efforts to bring about social peace and happiness in justice and brotherliness more than the lack of a practical recognition of the principles of true basic social unity," said Archbishop Stritch.

"Half-truths, theories, hypotheses, estimates, expediences and misinterpreted or faulty statistics are taken for social facts. On the basis of such assumptions, strange social measures are advocated and social unity promised . . .

"The church is His plan of social unity. In it, nations and groups and families and individuals can find the true social unity."

2-Day Show to Reveal Major Radio Changes

Mansfielders will see all that's new in radios when the 1939 models go on display Friday at the city-wide exhibit in the lobby of the Madison theater.

Sponsored by dealers in the city who will present their newest radio products to the public, the show will be in progress Friday and Saturday and will be open to the public.

Proving that the days of unsightly antennae and storage batteries are over, the 1939 models will represent sweeping changes in the radio industry.

The new sets prove that a radio has become an attractive part of the equipment of the American home—not an unsightly trinket that the housewife is ashamed to show to guests.

Many Improvements.

All the latest improvements from "remote control" tuning, enabling the listener to operate his set from any part of the house, to tone control that is adjustable to any type of program and to please any taste, are incorporated in the models which will be exhibited at the Mansfield radio show.

Models to match the furnishings of any home and the budgets of most homemakers will be shown ranging from small table models costing only a few dollars to large cabinet sets which sell for $150 or more.

Attractive and efficient models for automobiles and rural homes without electricity will be displayed by Mansfield radio dealers during the show. Dealers will emphasize the importance of buying now, at the beginning of the season for best radio reception. Special displays will be set up at stores throughout the city as well as at the Madison theater.

That a radio will bring entertainment and instruction from all parts of the world into the home at small cost will be the keynote of the display.

"A radio is becoming a necessity rather than a luxury and it can be an attractive addition to any home," dealers assert. And they will have evidence to prove it in their two-day display.

31 Features Mark Westinghouse's Newest Models

With 31 features and styled by one of the nation's leading radio designers, a high standard in convenience and performance is offered in the new 1939 Westinghouse Precision models to be exhibited in the city radio show at the Madison theater.

Distributed by the Martin Hardware company, 11 North Main street, the new line includes 19 different consoles and artistic table models.

Among the many advanced features is the precision electric tuning which affords instantaneous response to station preference by the push of a button.

The Precision Eye provides a visual method of manually tuning stations to hairline accuracy and the automatic volume control which prevents blasting of strong stations and keeps the volume at the same level as the dial is turned.

All models are equipped with a newly designed super-sensitive dust-proof loud speaker to eliminate distortion and noise caused by minute particles covering the air gap.

Demonstration of Philco Control Attracts Crowds

Ushered in as a mystery, the new Philco radio control, will become the necessity of tomorrow, according to engineers of the company.

At the Mets Auto Supply store this week crowds have been attracted by the demonstration of the Philco Mystery control, which permits a radio listener to set the dial at any desired station when he is in one room and the radio in another.

With the new improvement, which is still what its makers call it—a mystery—there need be no more jumping up and down a half dozen times during an evening to turn the dial to a new program.

Whether you are reading, playing bridge, working in the kitchen, or are in bed, you can get your radio station by the mere flip of a finger—by merely pressing a button on a little gadget you can regulate the volume or shut it off completely.

The same demonstration that has attracted hundreds during the past week at the Mets store, will be given at the Madison theater lobby Friday and Saturday during the annual radio show.

Westinghouse Pioneer In Radio Manufacturing

A pioneer in the manufacture of radio receivers, Westinghouse standards have been enhanced by the new 1939 Precision models, in a wide range of styles which will be displayed in a radio exhibit opening tomorrow at the Madison theater.

With 19 models ranging from artistic four-tube table sets to 12-tube console cabinets, Westinghouse boasts of 31 major improvements this year.

The new standards set in the 1939 all-wave receivers include precision electric tuning for instant selection of nine different stations with a push button.

All console models are equipped with a positive contact wave band switch which insures the correct amount of pressure to provide positive contact of the selected American and foreign broadcast and short wave stations.

Other features include automatic volume control, dust-proof electro-dynamic speakers, cushioned chassis and selected cabinets to blend with home furnishings.

The Westinghouse models are handled by the Ohio Public Service company, 10 South Park street.

Latest Westinghouse Model

Jones to Feature Philcos In City Radio Display

Philco Mystery Control, the latest invention of modern radio, will be featured in the display of 1939 Philco radios by the W. E. Jones Piano House, Park Avenue west, in the city-wide radio display Friday and Saturday in the Madison theater lobby.

In Mystery Control, Philco has eliminated the annoyance and inconveniences of radio tuning. The new invention is a unit separate from the radio itself. With it you can operate the radio in your living room from any part of the house.

You tune in your choice of eight stations, you raise or lower the volume, you even turn the radio off, without taking a step. The new unit can be carried to any part of the house to operate the radio.

There are no wires, no cords, no plug-in connections between the Mystery Control and the radio, nor to an electrical outlet nor to anything else. It operates through closed doors, through walls, windows or ceilings.

Beauty, Style Combined In New Silvertone Models

While the cabinet of any radio is not the most important feature, it is certainly to be considered—which is one reason why the Silvertone boasts that it has one of the most beautiful cabinets on the market.

And there is a wide variety of style in these Silvertone machines as displayed by Sears, Roebuck and company. There are graceful table models that may be taken into any room, console machines, and the popular phonograph-radio combinations on which all of your favorite old records may be played with all of the tone advantage of a modern radio.

Silvertone spreads the foreign bands, selecting foreign stations with the same ease and clairty as local stations. Names of cities and countries are on the short-wave band.

Another feature on this year's model is the 'instant" push-button tuning which replaces the old dial-twisting. Stations and programs may be secured or changed with one press of the finger.

The Sears, Roebuck company will display Silvertone models at the radio show at the Madison theater tomorrow and Saturday.

Emersons Offer Features New to Radio Industry

The 1939 Emerson radios, which will be displayed at the radio exhibit at the Madison theater by Rogers and company, 25 North Main street, provide a number of features new to the radio industry.

Available in a variety of models to meet every need, Emerson sets include such features as the Miracle Tone Chamber, designed to soften and smooth out the tones in the loudspeaker, and the Miracle Dial which can be read from any position.

In addition, the sets have "instimatic tuning," enabling the listener to press a button and instantly tune in the station he wants to hear. The tuning dial turns as the button is pressed so that the operator has a visible check on the accuracy of his tuning.

Emerson models have hand-rubbed walnut cabinets and a number of the models are combined with phonographs for all-round home entertainment.

Philco Mystery Control Operates Set From Any Room

Tricks of the master magician, Houdini, could not surpass the new Philco Mystery Control radios which have just been received by the Bell Music company. The radio cabinet may be placed in any room and the Mystery Control unit can be carried from place to place in the home for tuning or station changes.

Most amazing about the Mystery Control unit is that it need not be plugged into an electric outlet, nor are there any wires connecting it with the main cabinet. It is completely free of the instrument proper yet regulates station, tone and volume from a distance.

The Bell Music company has a variety of designs including the new and popular spinet which will be displayed in the city radio show opening tomorrow at the Madison theater.

COLOR IMPROVEMENTS

If workers in radio factories were color blind there would be little chance that the modern radios would produce anything but a lot of noise, for wire of as many as 17 different colors or shades are used in the manufacture of the 1939 receivers.

RCA Distinctive Name In Radio For 20 Years

A distinctive name in radio since the first receiving set was built more than 20 years ago, RCA 1939 models represent the finest in design, service and tonal qualities.

The famous RCA emblem of the Radio Corporation of America tells a story of model craftsmanship and ease of tuning unsurpassed in any other make of set.

Sold in Mansfield by the Ohio Public Service company, RCA Victor sets will be displayed in the radio show at the Madison theater, beginning Friday.

Such luxuries as electric tuning, noise eliminator, triple-cone speakers and new and modern cabinet designs are included in RCA models.

The RCA Victor radios show evidence of the craftsmanship that comes from 40 years of cabinet making by the Victor Phonograph company, now a part of the RCA organization.

There are 44 'extra value" features in the new RCA sets and 24 electrically-tuned models.

This Radio Can Take Place of Your Alarm Clock

Beauty in design, more conveniences and greater performance is combined in the 1939 Philco radio to be displayed Friday and Saturday by the Fox Hardware, 113 Newman street, in the city radio exhibit.

One of the new features offered is the automatic-control clock. When set, it automatically switches on the radio just before your favorite program begins. It also can be used as an alarm clock to wake you with music, or it will turn off the radio automatically after you have gone to bed.

Philco also features a new safety aerial which operates on the same vertical principle as the modern broadcasting station vertical antaennas. It is safe from lightning and from power line contacts. The Philco player is another new feature which reproduces records by a new method that gives all the richness of tone enjoyed in radio reception, and is quickly and easily attached to any radio.

In all lines of the 1939 Philco will be found a new and perfected push-button tuning, newly styled inclined control panel, streamline dials, new milled-edge Philco dis controls that make manual tuning speedier and more accurate, and balanced field speakers.

RADIO, LAMP COMBINED

Here's a novel combination of convenience and utility. A radio and lamp all in one! The device clamps on the top of the bedstead and provides an excellent reading lamp, while the radio dial is easily visible and accessible to the person lying in bed.

RADIO-PHONOGRAPH SETS

Many of the new 1939 radio receivers are provided with built-in phonograph jacks which require only that the record player be plugged in to convert them into combination outfits.

WPA SHIFTS 170 MEN TO $46,000 ROAD PROJECT

Widening of State Highway South of City Gets Under Way.

Approximately 170 men had been transferred today from county WPA road projects in Washington township to a state-sponsored project southwest of Mansfield, County Engineer Howard C. Sword said.

The state project, which will cost $46,000, calls for the widening and improving of five miles of the Shelby-Johnsville road from the Morrow county line north to the intersection with route 30-N. The state will contribute about $12,000 to the project and the rest will be provided by the WPA.

The road was recently taken over by the state highway department and is one of several in this section scheduled for improvement. Plans call for completion of the project in about five months.

Bowman Road Improved.

Workmen on a county-sponsored project today had started laying "black-top" on the Bowman street road north of the city.

About 140 men have been at work on the project for several weeks, and it will be completed in a month, the county engineer said. Slightly less than two miles of the road will be improved as a part of the county-wide million-dollar WPA program.

Latest G. E. Includes Host of Developments

A host of new developments are incorporated in the new 1939 General Electric radios which will be shown by the Richland Electric company, 14 North Diamond street, in the exhibit in the lobby of the Madison theater opening tomorrow.

The outstanding development featured in the new G-E model is the Bean-A-Scope, a scientific built-in mechanism, found exclusively in General Electric radios for reducing local static interference, and affording quieter reception especially in noisy areas.

The new mechanism eliminates outside aerials and ground connections making it possible to move the radio anywhere by plugging in at a light socket.

Another feature is the automatic program Pre-Selector—an ingenious time-control unit which permits pre-selection of favorite radio programs at 15-minute intervals for a 24-hour period on five different stations. The device tunes in the stations and switches from program to program.

The new G-E also has visual volume control and keyboard touch tuning that holds the program to "hair-line" precision, once the station is tuned in.

second struck Alderman in the abdomen as the lights went out.

She told of running into the bedroom to get her own revolver, a struggle with Snyder for its possession, and of Edith, her secretary, retrieving the weapon from the floor and firing at her father's retreating back.

"Well, the little lady hung another one on me," Snyder said, "But I can take it now because I guess all the old fires are dead."

"Col. Gimp" did not testify, on advice of his attorney, Jerry Geisler, but indicated he acted in self-defense.

A process server took the opportunity to hand Miss Etting a copy of the $150,000 love theft suit filed against her by Alderman's second wife, Alma, who later announced through her lawyer that she wished a reconciliation with the 30-year-old shooting victim whom she divorced last December.

Miss Etting divorced "Col. Gimp" last November after 17 years of marital partnership.

She and Alderman have said they were married secretly last July in Tijuana, Mex.

Incendiarism Hinted In Forest Fire Deaths of Five

BLAZE TRAPS CCC YOUTHS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Federal, State Investigators Hear Flames Started Under 'Unusual Circumstances.'

BULLETIN

SINNEMAHONING, Pa.—(UP)—A swiftly striking forest fire claimed a sixth life today with the death in a hospital of another CCC enrollee who had participated in fighting the freakish blaze in this hunting and fishing "paradise."

(By Associated Press)

EMPORIUM, Pa.—The deaths of five members of a nearby CCC camp in a series of intense forest fires brought a federal-county investigation today of reports of incompetent leadership and incendiarism.

Gilbert Mooney, 33, of Ridgway, a clerical employe at the camp, and four of the 20 boys he led into the tinder-dry, desolate wilds of second growth timber and scrub-land, were trapped late yesterday by a circle of flames and burned to death.

Col. C. L. King, at Indiana, Pa., district CCC headquarters, identified the dead boys as:

Basil Bogush, 19, Conemaugh, Pa.; John Boring, 18 Johnstown Pa..; Howard May, 16, Erie, Pa., and Andrew Stephenic, 18, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Probe Supervision.

District Attorney Edwin W. Tomkins said his investigation was designed to establish "the truth or falsity' of reports he heard that the CCC boys had been rushed into the flaming inferno without proper supervision and that four fires had broken out within an eight-mile area entered by the doomed men under what he termed "most unusual coincidences."

CCC officials, who launched their own investigation, refusing to discuss the situation officially, said Mooney was in the technical service of the department of forests and waters. They said they understood he had a wife and family "somewhere in West Virginia."

W. E. Nelson, of Emporium, one of the first newspapermen to reach the scene of the tragedy, about 25 miles south of this north-central Pennsylvania community said he was told the fire was one of the worst in decades while it raged

Paradoxically, almost as the boys were dying about 3:30 p. m., rain began falling. A few hours later the heavy downpour had extinguished the fires, some of which had been burning for more than 25 hours.

Italy Welcomes 10,000 Soldiers Back From Spain

NAPLES—(UP)—Ten thousand Italian soldiers, returning from the Spanish civil war, received an uproarious welcome today.

King Victor Emmanuel, Crown Prince Humbert, Count Galeazzo Ciano, foreign minister, and Achille Starace, secretary of the Fascist party, came to join Neopolitans in the reception

The entire city joined in a festival for the veterans of the Littorio and March 23rd divisions of Fascist militia who comprised the contingent.

The government hoped that the withdrawal would bring British recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, which France already has decided to recognize.

However, there was a distinct tone of reserve for the moment in official comment on the British recognition because no word had come from London to deny reports that the British government still insisted that a much larger number of Italian troops than 10,000 should be withdrawn.

PEACE LOOMING

Warehouse Strike Mediators Ready To Submit Agreement.

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—Mediators in San Francisco's 102-day old warehouse strike announced early today they had drafted an agreement which they expected would end the prolonged labor dispute which has closed 138 warehouses and left 2,500 men unemployed.

The agreement is subject to ratification by employers and members of the CIO International longshoremen's and warehousemen's union.

BURIED NEAR GAMBIER

Up and Down THE STREET

Young voters show little interest in campaign speeches so the county Democratic organization will turn its three major rallies before the November election into "swing sessions." For the next three Saturday nights, dances are scheduled to follow rallies at the county Democratic headquarters. "You've got to offer the youngsters something besides political talks if you want to interest them," one party leader said.

The "coke-date" dance listed on the Y. W. C. A. schedule for Friday night would certainly hold the attention of any of the oldsters who went to box socials and such. A "coke-date," in case you don't know your moderns, is a date on which the refreshments are limited strictly to Coca-Cola. The Junior and Senior Blue Tri girls will give a private dance between 8:30 and 11 p. m. tomorrow for their invited "dates," and — you've guessed it—there will be a Coca-Cola bar set up in one of the rooms.

Add Oddities: A pullet egg which tips the scales at one gram was laid this week by a four-pound leghorn pullet owned by H. C Brannon of 58 East Third street. The freak egg is no larger than a marble.

Martin Trauger, 234 South Diamond street, who is employed in the office of an investment firm in Cleveland, had the unique experience of being the center of attraction for two blocks on Euclid avenue the other day. As he walked along on a business errand, he noticed that people were looking at him queerly; some of them not only stared, but stopped in their tracks. Decidedly uncomfortable, he gazed at his reflection in windows but saw nary a suspender or shirt-tail hanging down. Finally a girl stopped him and said: "Do you know that you're on fire or something?" pointing to his hat. A match or cigaret flipped out of a second story window had been smoldering on his headpiece and had burned the entire top out of the crown of his hat.

* * *

Central station firemen who became the proud guardians of a new $8,400 pumper this week were like any other automobile owner today—they had a new machine and were anxious to use it. However, Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger said the new truck will not be placed in service until he receives written approval from the state fire inspection bureau which supervised pumping tests on the apparatus here Tuesday. He expects the written OK in a few days.

TESTIFIES FOR 'PERFECT MATE'

Mother Denounces Daughter at Husband's Trial for Slaying Love Rival.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO—His mother-in-law proved Rudolph Sikora's best friend today. She even turned against her own daughter to defend the 31-year-old "perfect husband" at his trial for the murder of his wife's sweetheart.

Before the jury of 11 married men and one bachelor, Mrs. Elizabeth Boehme hotly denounced pretty Mrs. Margaret Sikora for falling in love with the more glamorous Edward Solomon.

She told in detail of her own and Sikora's efforts to win the girl back and described the frenzied state of the defendant the night before he shot Solomon to death on the street.

It was the other side of the picture from that presented earlier in the day by the 22-year-old wife who left her adoring but mousey husband for a more exciting romance with Solomon.

As Sikora cringed and covered his face with his hands, his wife testified unemotionally for the prosecution:

"I loved Ed"

Mrs. Boehme was due to be cross-examined about her part in the tragic affair today but the high point of the trial expected by a thrill mad crowd of courtroom fans was the appearance of Sikora himself on the witness stand.

Defense Counsel W. W. Smith said he was unable to say whether it would be possible to call the defendant today, but announced it was certain that Sikora would sooner or later lay his case before the jury.

PARENTS GIVE IN, GIRL TO BE TREATED FOR MAD DOG WOUNDS

(By United Press)

MENLO PARK, Cal.—The parents of one of two children feared by health authorities to have been infected with rabies by a mad dog decided today to permit her to take the Pasteur treatment

Parents of the other child were reported to be ready to yield to the persuasion of friends and medical authorities.

The children came in contact with a mad dog last Thursday—eight days ago.

Hydrophobia usually develops in humans six weeks to three months after infection. The Pasteur treatment—a series of inoculations of graduated doses of weakened hydrophobia virus—is always effective when given at once, and has been effective as late as three weeks after infection.

Tillman Hunnel, father of Ruth Hunnel, 14, announced that she would begin the treatment today.

"I am tired of all this hullabaloo," he said. "That is the only reason for beginning treatments."

Ruth's ankle was scratched. Her father doubted that she had been infected.

The other child was Robert Stentiford who was bitten on the hand. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stentiford, felt that because the wound had been cauterized immediately there was no possibility of infection. Dr. R. J. Gerlough, city health officer, told them that the danger still existed and neighbors said they were changing their minds.

LOCAL BOND OK

Error in News-Journal Story on Schools Corrected.

Surety bonds for contractors who are given contracts on Mansfield school buildings under the million-dollar building program may be obtained from Mansfield bonding agencies, it developed today despite a statement to the contrary in The News-Journal yesterday.

Yesterday's article said this was forbidden by PWA regulations. PWA is supplying $450,000 of the million dollars to be spent.

PWA regulations forbid stipulating in specifications that bonds must be obtained from local agencies, but do not forbid successful bidders from obtaining their bonds locally.

In fairness to the Mansfield Board of Property and Liability Underwriters, which called the error to the attention of The News-Journal, and to all others concerned, this correction is made.

AWAIT NIPPON TROOPS MAKING RAPID ADVANCE

Japanese Tighten 'Pincer' Movement Against Hankow, Encircle Defense Line.

(By International News Service)

HONG KONG—An army of 100,000 Chinese, determined to drive Nippon's invaders from the South China area, massed today to defend war-threatened Canton.

Reports received here stated the huge Chinese force was drawn up in the Canton-Kowloon railway district, ready to engage the Japanese troops advancing from two directions upon the southern metropolis.

Japanese advices indicated that the Nipponese invaders were pressing forward, however, and it was believed that a severe battle might shortly develop for possession of the city.

Heavy Fighting Underway.

A telegram from the Chinese foreign ministry at Chungking, the provisional capital, told of heavy fighting in the Canton offensive and claimed several spectacular Chinese successes

"Severe air battles have been fought over southern Kwangtung province," the telegram stated, "and more than 30 Japanese planes have been shot down.

"Japanese troops concentrated at Waichow, Poklo and Tamshui were bombed and suffered heavy casualties.

Meanwhile, Japanese advices indicated a resurgence of activity on the Yangtze river front, where Nipponese legions are moving against Hankow, China's "Chicago."

These reports said the Japanese military "pincer" movement against Hankow is tightening and that the city's second line of defense has been encircled

The Chinese stronghold of Hwangshihkang, 50 miles southeast of Hankow, has been captured, it was claimed, and the fall of Macheng, 47 miles to the northeast, was termed imminent.

CALLS FOR UNITY

Metzenbaum Says Legislature Must Serve People.

DAYTON—James Metzenbaum, former state senator and special prosecutor in the Ohio senate's graft investigation, now the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, on the Democratic ticket, called for harmony between the two branches of the state legislature, "if it is to serve the people", in a speech before members of the Rotary and Exchange clubs in a joint meeting at the Biltmore hotel.

Metzenbaum, said it was imperative that "the house and senate at Columbus next year, be in accord and work in harmony, if the citizens of the state are represented as they have a right to expect."

The Clevelander asserted Americanism should supersede allegiance to political parties. "More and more people are coming to feel that we must be Americans first and that only thereafter may we be Republicans or Democrats", he said.

SETS CURFEW FOR PRANKSTERS

Bates Acts to Prevent Halloween Property Destruction.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates today ordered a 9 p. m. "curfew" for all Halloweeners picked up by police for the destruction of property.

He warned that persons brought in by police would be subject to a night in jail and payment of the damage of any property destroyed and that thereafter they would be required to be off the streets after 9 p. m.

The order came following the release of three youths yesterday after they had been arrested Tuesday night for breaking a window at the home of Charles Swank, 157 Newman street. Their parents paid the damage.

FAIR ENOUGH!

I Sy, Chappie, the British Take Some Nuisance Off Our Hands, Don't They?

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Now and again we in this country feel a little impatient with ourselves for submitting to the constant criticism of our manners, habits and all by visiting British authors and lecturers.

I am not saying we shouldn't be annoyed, for these chittering sopranos do be a nuisance, but what do you suppose are the feelings of the poor English people toward us, considering that their government has just about been taken over now by a clique of purse-proud snobs exported from the United States—the Astors and the Nancy Langhorne that was?

The Astors struck it rich in the United States and then, finding the fox hunting wasn't so good in this country, and finding the lower classes a little too ready to sound off at the lip, this Astor group high-tailed it for England, where they order such things much better

In time, with their American money, they bought themselves aristocratic rank, and now they run the good old Times of London, which, in the recent embarrassment with Adolf Hitler, laid down the course to be followed by the British government. They are the so-called Cliveden set, and Nancy obviously possesses, or pretends to, more influence than the queen herself.

Nancy is a born Virginia fox hunter, one of the old country set, very dashing and spirited and all that. Nancy's idea of democracy is to bandy rough and ready repartee with the lower orders of society in political meetings and, although there have been moments when the simple navvies or ditch-diggers of England have hollered "Good old Nancy!" there is none of that nonsense about the simple fraternity of human beings in the Cliveden set.

You wouldn't be finding much of that simple fraternity business among the Astors any where, and if it does come to a question of democracy the most democratic experience that has befallen the family in all its interesting life occurred in the American branch when the current John Jacob Astor incurred a stepfather who was a second-rate Italian prize fighter named Enzo Fiermonte.

The intricacies of the family are such that it would be difficult to decide offhand the actual relationship between Enzo Fiermonte, known in American pugilism as Enzo the Ginzo, and Major John Jacob Astor, the Mr. Big of the London Times and British foreign policy.

Major John Jacob Astor and the Cliveden set probably have no impatient desire to establish the relationship, for not only was Enzo a prize fighter, not a fox hunter, but he was once ruled out of a proposed match with Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom for the light-heavyweight championship of the world.

The New York prize fight commission ruled out the stepfather of the American John Jacob Astor on the ground that he wasn't a good enough prize fighter, but persons of democratic mind around New York booed the decision as class discrimination. People around here just thought that a stepfather of a John Jacob Astor was as good as Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom any day, as long as he behaved himself. We got real democracy over 'ere, mate.

The British Astors and Colonel Charles Lindbergh have been chumming it of late in Great Britain, and after the word came out of Cliveden that the British prime minister would please be good enough to do thus-and-so it developed that the American Lindbergh had dipped his bill into the councils which had led up to this super-royal decree.

All this government policy may have been good policy, and it may be that the apostate Americans of Cliveden in council with Colonel Lindbergh, the absentee American, give the poor British a better government than they could give themselves if they possessed the authority as well as the form of government.

But anyone who knows the British will understand that they must have a stuffy sense of fed-upness with this imported government, and we in this country will have to admit that our problems with the British lecturers, even the communists among them, is nothing compared to that of the British people under our expatriate fox hunters.

So 'ere's wery good 'ealth to the poor British, good hunting and all such as that and yoicks, thrice over, to 'er precious grice, Viscountess Nancy Astor, and all 'er kin, to 'oom the poor British are damn welcome.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The war scare only emphasized a realization that has been coming to Hollywood these past few years.

War in Europe would mean drastically curtailed production budgets in Hollywood. The foreign market, despite all the restrictions and handicaps that have been piling up against Hollywood product abroad, still represents about 40 per cent of the local income from pictures War would remove practically all of this revenue, and pictures would have to be made correspondingly cheaper to show a profit on American distribution alone.

But Hollywood has been looking for ways to economize—without sacrifice of quality—for some time now.

The day when a film's tremendous cost was used as an asset in exploitation is practically gone.

Today, and ever since the 1929 depression, Hollywood has been money-conscious in a different sense. It's not fashionable to talk about costs, and the quieter you keep those big salaries the happier the stars will be. When a popular picture comes along that didn't cost a mint, that's the time for bragging.

For all that, last year saw Hollywood spending millions on super-supers and colossals on celluloid. This year, faced by rising costs of labor, materials and talent, the industry has not been so reckless. It has spent, and it has made "colossals," but it also has been trying to keep the budgets down—as it would have to if war came.

And it can be done, as some of the year's most popular films have demonstrated.

Outstandingly, there is "Love Finds Andy Hardy," a cleaner-upper at its cost of about $200,000—and that would include overhead which, in a major studio, eats up about 40 per cent of every picture's "nut." It isn't a "big" picture—except in entertainment.

Another one—this from Republic where the overhead is slight—is "Tenth Avenue Kid." This came in for an estimated $55,000, and moreover it unearthed a new boy "find" in Tommy Ryan, the title character. The piece doesn't call out the lights and the banners, but audiences like it, and it looks like happy days for Bernhard Vorhaus, who directed it.

Everybody remembers "Boy of the Streets." Like Republic, Monogram is unburdened with a major studio's overhead, and this one made huge profits over its cost of $50,000 or so. It likewise restored Jackie Cooper to the pay-windows, and brings him back to the same studio for a repeat in "Gangster's Boy."

Virtually every studio occasionally turns out these "sleepers," or unpretentious pictures which click in a way to amaze the studio.

RKO has one now in "A Man to Remember." It's a simple story about a country doctor and what he does in the poorer section of a small town, but it has something you'll remember. What astounds Hollywood is its cost, a mere $119,000. To you and me, that's a heap of cash, but to a major studio that's a tip for the waiter.

It's pictures like these that point the way. Critics may not like all of them, but the public does. And the studios, if they're smart, will make more of them along with their epics.

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

On the eve of becoming a bride every girl hopes and possibly even prays that her husband may always remain her lover.

What Makes Marriage Successful?

My advise is: Be healthy and stay so.

Because of having more out-door life than girls used to have, and more training in sports, young wives nowadays are, as a rule, healthy. Which is a great blessing for themselves, their husbands and their children. But it's possible for the healthiest person, man or woman, to form unconsciously and by degrees the bad habit of being only half well, a condition which greatly endangers the happiness of marriage.

Men, I will confess, because of the routine of their lives, are less likely to acquire this habit. A girl, however, who has been magnificently healthy up to the time she marries, somewhat slumps as soon as she moves into a home of her own and has perhaps not quite enough to do. It's so easy to imagine one isn't quite well enough to get up in the morning; easy to coddle one's colds or one's headaches, even to make a fetish of them.

It's quite natural that a sympathetic young husband, very much in love, will for a time actually encourage this sort of thing. His wife's imagined fraility will even seem charming to him and he will find it sweet to tend her and pity her and do her work for her—for a while.

Usually husbands get tired of waiting on wives and making sacrifices for them when medical inspection has proved that nothing really is the matter. Then what happens? Why, misunderstandings, hurt feelings, quarrels, shattering of all the early dreams.

Genuine illness is another matter. That has its own problems which I'm not at present referring to. What I am pointing out is that one of the main joys of marriage is companionship, and that a married pair who aren't able to do the same things, to work together and to play together, miss a big chance of being happy.

A strong, cheerful young couple who adore taking long hikes together on Sundays or who, when the kitchen gets a bit dingy, enjoy doing the re-painting job together, have made a promising start toward success in marriage.

The households where all sensible precautions are taken in order to keep sound and well, but where the dreary subject of illness is not mentioned except when it's strictly necessary, are, I assure you, the enviable ones.

Today's Fashion

By VERA WINSTON

PRINTS go on and on, which is not surprising, for a printed frock or frock with jacket is always right for daytime occasions. This model, for instance, could go anywhere during the day. It is of white silk with a design in bright cyclamen pink. The bolero has an inch-wide edging in cyclamen, and the buttons down the front of the dress bodice are in the same shade. A pleated inset down the center front adds to the crisp look of the dress.

Find Out What Makes You Constipated!

You know that constipation often gives you that dopey, sunken, bogged down feeling. Why not get at the cause and prevent it?

If you eat what millions do—things like bread, meat and potatoes—the chances are all that's the matter with you is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean what you may think. It's a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft bulky mass in the intestines that aids elimination.

If this is your trouble, what you need is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains both "bulk" and Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B₁. And it's not a drug, not a medicine!

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and see if the old world doesn't look a lot brighter! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Oct. 21.

A DAY of much initiative and high tension may be expected, with corresponding returns in progress and prosperity. New projects may be enthusiastically put over, with some friendly assistance. But it would be well to be particularly cautious with strangers or those not thoroughly dependable. The former might cause friction or loss. Personal matters are well aspected for satisfaction and happiness.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which new enterprises may be safely promoted, with definite progress and lucrative returns. But be careful with strangers or intruders, as friction, loss or regret might result from overconfidence or trusting in wrong directions. There are auspicious signs for all personal or social enjoyments.

A child born on this day may be enterprising and have fine constructive ability, with much courage and initiative. Its personal life should be happy and prosperous.

My Neighbor Says:

It is important that apples and similar fruits should never be put into Winter quarters while wet with dew or rain. A very good way to keep apples, pears and some vegetables as well in a crisp fresh state is to pack them in clean, nearly dry leaves, using first a layor of leaves and then a layer of fruit or vegetables, and so on. More leaves will be required if the room or cellar is dry than if it is moist. Vegetables may be kept in leaves which are decidedly moist. Peaches and plums will not keep long unless the temperature is down to 33 degrees. These fruits, like grapes, must be ripened before being picked to be of the best quality.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Don't telephone him! Please!" she whispered hoarsely, and I realized that she was as anxious as I to let no sound filter from our suite to the hall outside.

"You win," she went on, and the terror in her eyes was suddenly infused with hatred. "I'll spill all the beans if you'll let me go and not telephone Uncle Phil."

Wants Real Reason.

"I can't decide yet about letting you go," I said. "That I shall have to take up later. But I can promise not to telephone Mr. Veritzen provided you give me the real reason for your performance tonight. But, remember, I am not easily fooled. You have tried to deceive me upon several occasions before this, and I do not recall that you ever succeeded."

"It's very simple," she said. "I found out who was going to occupy this suite and why, and the precautions which were being taken for your safety and privacy. Then the temptation came to me to have an adventure such as I have read of in books. It seemed such a lark to live next door to you and not have you dream I was here. So I came to the hotel manager, showed him my credentials from Uncle Phil, and told him Mr. Veritzen wished me to have an opportunity for full espionage over this suite at any time I wished. They were much impressed, and gave me full collaboration. The rest you know."

It Won't Do.

"It wont do, Avis," I said crisply as she finished.

"What won't do?" she snapped, plainly on edge.

"Your story," I said inexorably. "It's all right as far as it goes, but you never will make me believe that you are here just out of idle curiosity. And I must know the truth before I keep my promise not to call Mr. Veritzen."

"All right!" she said. "I might as well be hung for a sheep as for a lamb. Suppose I was trying to get something on that double-faced Jezebel who robbed me of Noel? You can't hang me for that.

Won't Try It Again.

"No, but we could make it exceedingly uncomfortable for you," I told her. "But I'm glad you've admitted before a witness"—I gestured to Miss Whitlock—"what you were trying to do. It gives me a certain assurance that you will not try this particular little trick again, especially when I tell you that the first movement from you means instant communication with Mr. Veritzen, and informing him of your actions."

"You hold all the cards," she said, with a flippancy characteristic of her. "You know very well I can't come back here. So why not let me go? I won't tell anybody about the way you treated me tonight if you'll let me go right away."

"You won't tell anybody about that, no matter when I let you go." I told her confidently. "And I'm not going to ask you to make any promise about telling or coming back here, first, because your word is worth absolutely nothing, second, because you are afraid to do anything else than obey me."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

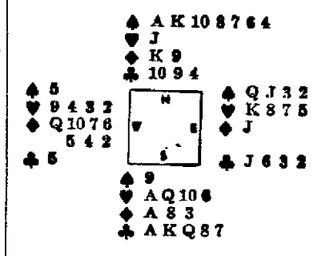
"The Authority on Authorities"

GO THE LIMIT

IT WILL ORDINARILY pay to make extreme plans when the opponents have done extreme bidding. If one of them has opened with three or more of a suit which you know to be a showing of length without strength in order to crowd your own side consider that he has told you a good deal about his partner's hand. Count on that partner for length in every other suit and also for every outstanding honor card except in the suit with which the pre-empt or shoutout try was made. Sometimes this will work out badly but usually it will pay as good players seldom make high original bids on hands with any length or strength in another suit.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable).

A national championship depended on this deal. The winning side bid the North-South cards to 6-Clubs at one table and of course made the contract easily. At the other table, North and South got into 7-Clubs. If they had made the contract they would have won the title, but they didn't.

West had opened the bidding with a shutout effort of 3-Diamonds in spite of which or perhaps partly because of which their opponents went all the way eventually to a grand slam in clubs. West led the heart 2. The J from dummy drew the K and A.

Now South had to plan. A 4-1 division of five cards is ordinarily quite unlikely she figured so tried two rounds of trumps. When West showed out on the second round the beans were spilled. Only one trump remained in dummy. If it was used for the marked finesse against the J it could not also be used for the necessary ruff of a heart. Figuring from the three-bid that East might have four trumps including the jack, and finessing early, South could have succeeded.

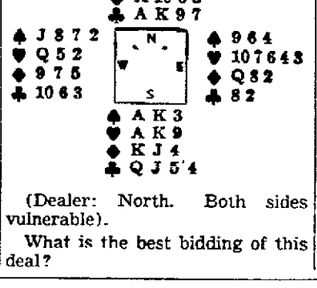
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable).

What is the best bidding of this deal?

A bottle of furniture polish on a clean dry mop works wonders on polished floors.

Left over fowl can be sliced, diced and served in creamed or escalloped mixtures or combined with other ingredients for a loaf, timbales or a souffle.

Home-Made Biscuits Hit Spot

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

THERE'S nothing like a batch of homemade muffins or biscuits to give eclat to a meal, no matter how simple it may be. It is a good idea, when the meal is rather skimpy, with perhaps the main dish compounded of left-overs, to cheer things up a bit with a nice muffin. And a grand meal becomes even nicer when home-made muffins or biscuits are served.

These recipes have all been contributed by readers and we can vouch for their goodness because we have sampled them.

Raisin muffins, delicious and nourinsing come first. Ingredients call for two cups sifted flour, two teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one well-beaten egg, cut milk, four tablespoons melted shortening, one-half cup raisins. Sift flour, measure and resift with baking powder, sugar and salt. Combine egg, milk and shortening. Add to flour, beating only enough to dampen flour. Mix raisins into batter. Pour into well-greased hot muffin pans about two-thirds full, and bake in 425 degrees F. oven about 25 minutes, or until done.

Wholewheat Muffins.

Wholewheat muffins call for one cup white flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons sugar, one and one-third cups wholewheat flour, one well-beaten egg, one cup milk, three tablespoons melted shortening, one-half cup raisins. Sift white flour and measure then resift with baking powder, salt and sugar. Add whole-wheat flour and mix well. Add egg to milk and combine with dry mixture. Add melted shortening and mix until smooth. Beat raisins into mixture. Fill well-greased, hot muffin pans half-full of batter and bake in 400 degree F oven 20 minutes or so.

From a reader in Georgia comes a recipe for a prize southern delicacy, corn sticks. Her formula calls for two cups corn meal, one cup milk, one egg, one tablespoon lard, two teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. Beat altogether and bake in greased tins the shape of bread sticks or ears of corn, in a quick over (500 degrees F.) for 10 to 12 minutes.

Buttermilk Muffins.

Buttermilk muffins recipe is from the same source. Ingredients include one quart buttermilk, two eggs, one tablespoon sugar, four cups sifted flour, two tablespoons corn meal, one teaspoon salt and one teaspoon soda. Cream sugar and eggs, add milk and then the flour, corn meal, salt and soda, which has been sifted three times. Beat hard one minute and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 10 minutes.

Here is a recipe that good New England housewives use for a delicious sour cream biscuit, for shortcake and as a pastry for meat pies. It calls for two cups flour, one teaspoon soda, teaspoon baking powder, teaspoon salt and one cup thick sour cream. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Gradually work this into cream, making a soft dough and roll out about an inch thick. Cut with a large biscuit cutter, place on a greased pan and bake in moderately-hot oven. Serve hot with maple syrup, preserves or honey.

It is not necessary to harvest beets, carrots and turnips before danger of severe freezing and they will keep on growing until the end of the season. When they are finally taken into the cellar they should be kept at a temperature of 33 to 40 degrees, if possible. Then they will remain in good condition for months. One good way to keep them from decaying is to pack them in boxes with sand around them. Some garden makers get just as good results using leaves.

Notes From a Model's Diary

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

CONSUELO'S show opens next week and the premiere will give me my first big dress-up evening. I had to break my dinner date with Bill because of a dreadful toothache, but we are going to the opening together and then on to the big party that is to be given for Consuelo.

Bill seemed so pleased when I asked him if he would like to go with me. And Consuelo seemed delighted, too, when I told her. I have a sneaking suspicinon that she would like me to make up with Bill. Well, I'm thinking of doing so very seriously myself.

After all, I haven't met a man who appeals to me half as much as Bill does, despite his faults. And I do know the worst about Bill, and any other man would be an unknown quantity. Of course, I haven't breathed a word of this to a soul, and Bill himself hasn't the remotest idea. I will have to lead him on; otherwise, if I broach the subject, I may find that he has no intention of resuming our association. Then I would look stupid.

Will Look Her Best.

I am going to try to look my best. I only hope that we have plenty of time alone together; otherwise, there won't be much opportunity to talk. We are going to a big party and, of course, nothing gives a couple such a chance to be alone as does a big crowd. I was thinking of asking him to dine at the apartment before the show, but Consuelo asked me to have dinner with her. So we will have a very quiet dinner at about six o'clock, which will allow her to get down to the theater a litle after seven o'clock.

We can't get enough violet and purple fabric for our suits and coats, for these colors are going over in a big way. This model is in a violet cloth which has a hairy surface. The new dolman line of the sleeve gives breadth to the top of the shoulder line, as well as below it. The Alaska seal revers turn back in towards the center. The buttons are of fur. It has a slightly bloused line. The revers terminate in a cufflike collar in back.

Powder Great Blessing

By MME. QUI VIVE

A high grade powder is a beauty blessing. It serves as a protective agent against strong sunlight, harsh winds and atmospheric dust. It is doubtful if it enters the pores, though any woman who knows her beauty rules won't grind it into the flesh because it is likely to fluff up the delicate skin scales. She pats it on lightly, starting under the chin and not on the nose, as was the old-time custom. After its application she gives her face a light tapping with the finger tips. That treatment makes the powder stick like a friend and a brother, animates the tiny capillaries that give color and life to the cutaneous over coat.

She may or may not use a foundation cosmetic. If the skin is inclined to be oily she may find it helpful. If the skins is dry an oily base is best, but must be thoroughly removed.

One cannot be too fastidious about the powder pad, since germs and germess lurk on even a clean skin. Absorbent cotton is more sanitary though many women don't fancy the feel of it and it doesn't spread the fluff stuff as nicely as lamb's wool. Rouge pads are usually in for a long time of service and that's not so good.

Never starch linens that are to be stored away for a long time. They are apt to crack. Rinse free from starch, dry and fold away, if possible, in blue paper. The blue paper prevents them turning yellow.
